10-Year Aid Plan Said On Ike's Program

Economic Assistance To Foreign Nations May Total $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration reportedly plans to ask Congress for power to commit the United States to a 10-year program of economic aid to friendly nations.

The sum for any country would vary, depending on the size of the project to be backed. A maximum of $1 billion is being considered, with the money to be parceled out in annual installments.

Such a request would be virtually certain to stir up new opposition among members of Congress already critical of the administration's plan to boost its 1956 request for new foreign aid funds to nearly $5 billion. Congress voted $2.7 billion this year.

Without reference to the new long-term commitment the administration is reported to want, Sen. George (D-Ga) said today he believes "there will have to be a very serious reappraisal" by Congress of the foreign aid situation.

* * *

GEORGE, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that "sentiment has been growing in Congress to trim economic aid way down" since many [illegible] world countries, particularly in Europe, have shown excellent economic progress.

Congress has normally insisted that economic aid be granted strictly on a year-to-year basis, without any long-term commitments.

Informed officials said the administration has decided to ask for some kind of long-term pledge to allow greater flexibility in planning.

Officials emphasized the administration will seek only the right to make a "moral commitment" to back a specific foreign aid project over a long-term period.

Congress still would decide whether to appropriate the funds each year, regardless of any such commitment.

These informants said further the administration would use such authority only when necessary to encourage a country to go ahead with a worthwhile long-range project it might otherwise abandon.

Stars, Stripes Fly Again At Little America

LITTLE AMERICA (AP) — The Stars and Stripes were raised again at Little America yesterday.

The buildings of the first camp built in 1928 are covered by an estimated 60 feet of snow and ice. The second camp is about 40 feet below. Only thing found on the surface were the tops of towers and poles.

The experts aboard the icebreaker USS Glacier haven't decided yet where to build the permanent main base of the current United States antarctic expedition. The base will be used during the next three years by International Geophysical Year scientists.

The experts are seeking a site that would be unlikely to break off and float to sea. The right spot would also be free of crevasses and practical for loading cargo.

The specific area known as Little America near the Bay of Whales may not be chosen again but no one will forget the scene.

Sticking up from the wind-swept snow are the tops of two steel radio towers built at first Little America. The towers were originally 70 feet high. Today only about eight feet are showing.

Also protruding from the snow like fingers frozen in death are the tops of five wooden poles which were used for radio wires at the second Little America between 1933 and 1935.

Outside Motorists Top Accident List

By DAVE BROWN
Herald Staff Writer

Non-countians are still becoming involved in the greatest share of accidents in Pickaway County, according to statistics from the sheriff's department here.

Figures taken for the period of June to the end of November reveal that approximately 60 percent of the persons involved in traffic accidents in the county reside in other areas. Statistics for the first six months of 1955 listed 58 percent.

Motorists between 20 and 40 have had the most accidents here, according to the report, with the highest concentration being in the 20-30 age group. It was also disclosed that nearly one-fourth of Pickaway Countians who have had traffic accidents are under 20, and an additional one-fourth are between 20 and 25.

Of the 349 cars and trucks which have been in accidents during this same period, nearly 28 percent are either 1954 or 1955 model vehicles. The report also reveals that the lighter cars seem to be in more accidents.

* * *

FAILURE TO yield the right of way to other vehicles, and failure to maintain the proper distance from another vehicle, are the two main reasons listed for mishaps in the six-month period reported. Speeding—either just plain "too fast", or "too fast for the conditions of the road"—ranks third in the causes of crashes in Pickaway County, the report notes.

Speeding ranks as the most frequent offense for which motorists have been arrested in the county from June to the end of November, according to records at Circleville Municipal Court. Crossing yellow lines is second while drunk and reckless driving fight it out for third place honors.

(Pickaway County already has shown a higher increase in traffic accidents than any other county in Ohio this year. The number of accident injuries in the county this year has already broken all available records, according to the sheriff's department. There have been 15 fatal crashes so far this year, reportedly setting another modern traffic record.)

Complicating the entire picture is the revelation that city court handled fewer traffic cases for the first five months of this year as compared with 1954, the year in which the court was established in Circleville. In 1954, a total of 1,246 cases were processed through the court from January to the end of May; in 1955, 805 cases were handled in a similar period, a decrease of one-third.

* * *

Here is a breakdown of the figures:

Persons In Accidents

Under 20, 67; 20 to 30, 134; 30 to 40, 89; 40 to 50, 55; over 50, 62. Total, 407.

COLUMBUS (AP) — U. C. Felty, Ohio highway safety director, says he has asked state police for a vigorous campaign against drunken drivers on the New Years holiday weekend.

He said the state highway patrol will be out in full strength over the weekend seeking to keep traffic accidents low.

Examiner Files Report On 4 County Offices

23 Findings Listed; All Attributed To Procedure Errors

A state examiner's report filed today listed findings totaling $21,153.91 on the basis of an audit made of four Pickaway County departments.

The special examination was made on books of the treasurer and auditor departments, county commissioners, and probate court. Examiner Earl Serbu made the audit, covering a period from Sept. 16, 1953, to Jan. 6, 1955.

Of the total findings reported, $488 was listed paid and $12,295.60 as transferred or adjusted, leaving an unpaid balance on the report of $8,370.31. All the findings resulted from incorrect book-keeping methods and misunderstandings as to procedure.

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer emphasized that no violations of the law were apparent in the report, which was filed with the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices in the State Auditor's Department.

* * *

EXAMINER Serbu's report listed a total of 23 findings. Eight of them were for amounts in excess of $1,000, but of this total all but two had already been paid or transferred.

One of the two, Ammer explained, resulted from a tangling of funds in book-keeping procedure. And final disposition of the remaining finding remains uncertain, he said.

This finding, the largest listed, is for $3,001.30.

It was filed against the county's undivided local governmental fund in favor of the county's 15 townships. Reason for the finding was insufficient allocations to the local government funds.

Ammer said the $3,001.30 finding came about when it was learned that certain townships during the report period did not receive at least the minimum allocation required by law. He stressed, however, that this referred only to the period covered by the audit, and that this matter has since been adjusted.

As to disposition of the finding—or how the townships now could be given the money found due them—the prosecutor, a member of the budget commission, said he does not know off-hand how this can be done.

The broadcasting firm called Abe's action "unprovoked." Welfare officials were unavailable for comment today. They were enjoying a "yearend-forgetting" holiday.

Soviet Red Party Boss Accuses Eisenhower Of 'Crude Interference'

U. S. Officials Astonished By Khrushchev's Rap At Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials were astonished at Nikita Khrushchev's direct attack today on President Eisenhower. They thought this action by a top Soviet leader may mean the development of a still tougher line in Russian foreign policy.

Experts here found it significant, moreover, that the immediate reason for the personal attack was a rather routine Christmas message in which Eisenhower spoke of prayers for freedom in Eastern Europe.

Khrushchev's attack on the President indicates the satellite front is an extremely sensitive one for the Soviets. This in turn suggests they may in fact be confronted with greater problems of maintaining Communist control there than the West knows about in detail.

Authorities were not particularly impressed initially by Khrushchev's boasts of more powerful atomic weapons. The propaganda line of a powerful Soviet Union standing confident and powerful in a world of waning capitalism is one which Moscow has been developing with great enthusiasm in recent months—even before the summit conference Geneva last July.

Khrushchev and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin met Eisenhower at the summit conference and professed to be greatly impressed with the sincerity of his statements about peace and disarmament and his declarations of interest in avoiding atomic warfare.

They rejected even then, however, all of his efforts and all of the arguments advanced by Secretary of State Dulles for bringing up the problems of the satellite countries at the Geneva meeting.

Subsequently, at the Big Four foreign ministers meeting at Geneva in October-November, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov served notice that the Soviets would never abandon their East German puppet regime to the fate of all-German free elections.

And he turned down every effort by Dulles and the British and French foreign ministers to obtain some lessening of Iron Curtain barriers between East and West.

Dulles became pretty well convinced then that the Soviets were extremely sensitive to any maneuver which would tend to increase freedom in the satellite countries or weaken in any way the hold of Red leaders on the captive peoples in the Iron Curtain area.

Whatever else it may mean, the attack on Eisenhower today appears to fit into that pattern. Khrushchev felt compelled to assert in an attack without precedent in the Eisenhower administration that the American President was guilty of "crude interference" in the internal affairs of Eastern Europe by sending a Christmas message for broadcasting to the satellite peoples. He also accused the United States of trying to "reestablish capitalism" in Communist Eastern Europe, and he said this was incompatible with the Geneva spirit.

On the latter point at least Khrushchev was far behind Western foreign ministers. They pronounced the Geneva spirit dead and got it pretty well buried during their meeting with Molotov.

Dulles said later that the cold war was on again and that the Soviets had opened up dangerous new fronts in the Middle East.

Wanna Elephant? Big Store Cuts Price On 550-Pounder

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Anybody want to buy an elephant?

The John Wanamaker department store here has one on sale for $4,995.

"It's a bargain," the salesman said. "Hannibal originally cost $7,800 but we reduced the price in line with the store's two-day Christmas season sale."

At this point, Hannibal, whose 14 months and 550 pounds make her just a tot among pachyderms, lifted her trunk and trumpeted.

As the roar cascaded through the pet shop, a hush fell among the other animals and visiting children. But the salesman smiled confidently.

"Just think of who you could be if Hannibal was yours,' he said. "You would be the only private owner of an elephant in the United States.

"I bet you would be surprised at all the things you can do with an elephant. Suppose your garden hose breaks. All you have to do is set out a dozen pails of water. Then call on Hannibal to spray your flowers.

* * *

"AS FOR MOVING furniture or a snowbound car, just have Hannibal put her stout head against anything heavy and she will push it wherever you want it."

"Of course," the salesman admitted, "Hannibal does have a few personal habits that you have to cater to."

One of her habits turned out to be a hearty breakfast and dinner with the day's feeding consisting of one bushel of kale, one bushel of carrots, 10 to 12 quarts of oats and a bale of hay which she alternately uses as a bed and an in-between snack. At present grocery rates this would add up to $42 a week.

Hannibal also is concerned about her complexion and there is nothing she likes more than a nice oily skin. The other day it took four men two hours to give her a beauty treatment using two pounds of pure lanolin.

A department store official said the young elephant was purchased in keeping with the store pet shop's motto that it handles anything from a puppy to a gorilla but the animal's king-sized appetite prompted the decision to seek a quick sale.

Poll Of Demo Chiefs Lists Adlai As Leading Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — An overwhelming majority of Democratic leaders believe Adlai Stevenson is now the best bet to win their party's presidential nomination again in 1956.

The Associated Press today totaled up the results of a poll of 126 Democratic governors, state chairmen and members of the party's national committee.

The Democrats were asked:

"Whom do you consider the leading candidate, in your state, for the presidential nomination?

Their replies were broken down this way:

Stevenson	76
Kefauver	5
Lausche	3
Others, or no comment	39

The poll isn't as one-sided as it might seem.

Some who voted for Stevenson stressed that his margin is so slight it may vanish before the convention is held in August.

At least five politicians couldn't make up their minds, and decided the race was a tossup between Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, an "inactive" candidate so far, got eut three votes. One of these was from Carmine G. DeSapio, who, as a national committeeman and chief of Tammany Hall, should have much to say about how New York's 98 votes are cast in the convention.

* * *

GOV. FRANK J. Lausche of Ohio, running both as a favorite son and for the U. S. Senate, picked up a home vote, plus one from Massachusetts and one from Texas.

Others mentioned as presidential possibilities:

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Some samples of comment:

Jack Toole, chairman of the Montana state committee: "I have just finished a tour of the state and I find that Adlai Stevenson is the most popular man right now."

Tom E. Brown, speaking as an individual and not as the New Mexico chairman: "Stevenson is so far out in front that others don't have a look-in in New Mexico."

Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma: "I believe it is a tossup in Oklahoma right now between Stevenson and Harriman with Harriman on the gain. Kefauver has some pretty strong support too."

Mrs. Myrtle McIntyre, New Hampshire national committeewoman: "I don't think anybody can touch Kefauver in New Hampshire."

George Sandlin, Texas state chairman: "Lausche has a slight edge now on Stevenson, with Kefauver third, Harriman fourth."

New Dust Storm Threat Develops

WASHINGTON (AP)—The threat of new dust storms hangs over wide areas of the Great Plains, the Agriculture Department reports.

Reports from the field as of Dec. 1 indicated, the department said, that dry soils and below normal rain and snowfall have left about 20 million acres of land in 10 Great Plains states in a condition to suffer wind damage.

The department said about 75 per cent of land in a condition to be damaged by storms is in Kansas, Texas and Colorado. The other states are New Mexico, Oklahoma, Montana, Nebraska, the Dakotas and Wyoming.

Ike's Christmas Message To Europeans Hit

Khrushchev Dismisses 'Open Sky' Plan, Pokes Ridicule At Dulles

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev today accused President Eisenhower of "crude interference" in the affairs of Communist nations, and dismissed his open skies arms inspection as "nothing more than military intelligence."

He boasted that the Soviet hydrogen bomb "can be considerably increased in power." At the same time he criticized Secretary of State Dulles as "advocating massive retaliation and other absurdities."

"Some Western politicians have a strange idea of the Geneva spirit," he asserted. "They want us to disarm our army and also to disarm morally and politically."

Khrushchev said he spoke about Eisenhower critically "most unwillingly" because he respected the President "so much." But, he declared, the President's Christmas message to the people of Eastern European Communist nations "is quite incompatible with the Geneva spirit."

* * *

THIS REFERRED to a presidential message broadcast by Radio Free Europe saying:

"During the Christmas season I want you to know that the American people recognize the trials under which you are suffering; join you in your concern for the restoration of individual freedoms and political liberty; and share your faith that right in the end will prevail to bring you once again among the free nations of the world."

Khrushchev asserted:

"To pray for a change of regime in the people's democracies is crude interference in the internal affairs of those countries and only leads to inciting passions and the armaments race."

Khrushchev repeated the statement he made in India after the recent H-bomb test explosion in the Soviet Union—that the new Russian weapon "was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives."

He said that although "we do not want to boast about our military and technical strength," he wanted to remind the West about the test explosion.

"The power of this weapon was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives and it can be considerably increased," he added. "People who are trying to in-

Dionne Quints Seek To Make Life Of Own

MONTREAL (AP) — A spokesman for the Dionne quintuplets says they are staying away from home to prove they want a life of their own, but they will visit their parents sometime in January.

G. Harold Edwards, a trust company executive who befriended the four sisters while handling their finances, said they had planned to visit the family home at Callender, Ont., for New Year's until their father, Oliva Dionne, charged publicly that "outsiders" were splitting them away from the family.

By going home now they would be "giving in," Edwards explained. He said the quints "want to make a private life of their own."

The four surviving quintuplets, Annette, Cecile, Marie and Yvonne held a small party last night in the apartment they have rented in northwest Montreal. Reporters in the hall outside could hear music and laughter and a young man came to the door when a newsman knocked.

Father Dionne was not reconciled by reports that the girls were upset at his charges and had denied they were breaking away from the family.

"I don't regret having issued the statement," he declared. "The embarrassment we were suffering over the separation became so great we felt obliged to make public how we felt about it. We hold no grudge against the quints. The stories out of Montreal support what we said in the first place—that the girls are being influenced by outsiders."

Yearend-Forgetting Party Going Strong

TOKYO (AP)—Tokio Okada, 26, Japan Broadcasting System reporter, popped into the virus and blood plasma section of the Welfare Ministry yesterday and found a wine party in progress.

Okada's pals manhandled Abe and turned him over to police.

The broadcasting firm called Abe's action "unprovoked." Welfare officials were unavailable for comment today. They were enjoying a "yearend-forgetting" holiday.

Examiner Files Report On 4 County Offices

23 Findings Listed; All Attributed To Procedure Errors

A state examiner's report filed today listed findings totaling $21,153.91 on the basis of an audit made of four Pickaway County departments.

The special examination was made on books of the treasurer and auditor departments, county commissioners, and probate court. Examiner Earl Serbu made the audit, covering a period from Sept. 16, 1953, to Jan. 6, 1955.

Of the total findings reported, $488 was listed paid and $12,295.60 as transferred or adjusted, leaving an unpaid balance on the report of $8,370.31. All the findings resulted from incorrect book-keeping methods and misunderstandings as to procedure.

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer emphasized that no violations of the law were apparent in the report, which was filed with the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices in the State Auditor's Department.

* * *

EXAMINER Serbu's report listed a total of 23 findings. Eight of them were for amounts in excess of $1,000, but of this total all but two had already been paid or transferred.

One of the two, Ammer explained, resulted from a tangling of funds in book-keeping procedure. And final disposition of the remaining finding remains uncertain, he said.

This finding, the largest listed, is for $3,001.30.

It was filed against the county's undivided local governmental fund in favor of the county's 15 townships. Reason for the finding was insufficient allocations to the local government funds.

Ammer said the $3,001.30 finding came about when it was learned that certain townships during the report period did not receive at least the minimum allocation required by law. He stressed, however, that this referred only to the period covered by the audit, and that this matter has since been adjusted.

As to disposition of the finding—or how the townships now could be given the money found due them—the prosecutor, a member of the budget commission, said he does not know off-hand how this can be done.

Judge Doubling Drunk Driver Bonds

WARREN (AP)—Municipal Judge James A. Ravella has doubled the amount of bond required for the release of any person charged with drunk driving over the New Year's weekend.

The judge said he will require $1,000 cash or $2,000 property bond from today through Jan. 5. He said that if the higher bond cuts drunk driving arrests over New Year's, he may continue it.

U. S. Officials Astonished By Khrushchev's Rap At Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials were astonished at Nikita Khrushchev's direct attack today on President Eisenhower. They thought this action by a top Soviet leader may mean the development of a still tougher line in Russian foreign policy.

Experts here found it significant, moreover, that the immediate reason for the personal attack was a rather routine Christmas message in which Eisenhower spoke of prayers for freedom in Eastern Europe.

Khrushchev's attack on the President indicates the satellite front is an extremely sensitive one for the Soviets. This in turn suggests they may in fact be confronted with greater problems of maintaining Communist control there than the West knows about in detail.

Authorities were not particularly impressed initially by Khrushchev's boasts of more powerful atomic weapons. The propaganda line of a powerful Soviet Union standing confident and powerful in a world of waning capitalism is one which Moscow has been developing with great enthusiasm in recent months—even before the summit conference Geneva last July.

Khrushchev and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin met Eisenhower at the summit conference and professed to be greatly impressed with the sincerity of his statements about peace and disarmament and his declarations of interest in avoiding atomic warfare.

They rejected even then, however, all of his efforts and all of the arguments advanced by Secretary of State Dulles for bringing up the problems of the satellite countries at the Geneva meeting.

Subsequently, at the Big Four foreign ministers meeting at Geneva in October-November, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov served notice that the Soviets would never abandon their East German puppet regime to the fate of all-German free elections.

And he turned down every effort by Dulles and the British and French foreign ministers to obtain some lessening of Iron Curtain barriers between East and West.

Dulles became pretty well convinced then that the Soviets were extremely sensitive to any maneuver which would tend to increase freedom in the satellite countries or weaken in any way the hold of Red leaders on the captive peoples in the Iron Curtain area.

Whatever else it may mean, the attack on Eisenhower today appears to fit into that pattern. Khrushchev felt compelled to assert in an attack without precedent in the Eisenhower administration that the American President was guilty of "crude interference" in the internal affairs of Eastern Europe by sending a Christmas message for broadcasting to the statellite peoples. He also accused the United States of trying to "reestablish capitalism" in Communist Eastern Europe, and he said this was incompatible with the Geneva spirit.

On the latter point at least Khrushchev was far behind Western foreign ministers. They pronounced the Geneva spirit dead and got it pretty well buried during their meeting with Molotov.

Dulles said later that the cold war was on again and that the Soviets had opened up dangerous new fronts in the Middle East.

Wanna Elephant? Big Store Cuts Price On 550-Pounder

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Anybody want to buy an elephant?

The John Wanamaker department store here has one on sale for $4,995.

"It's a bargain," the salesman said. "Hannibal originally cost $7,800 but we reduced the price in line with the store's two-day Christmas season sale."

At this point, Hannibal, whose 14 months and 550 pounds make her just a tot among pachyderms, lifted her trunk and trumpeted.

As the roar cascaded through the pet shop, a hush fell among the other animals and visiting children. But the salesman smiled confidently.

"Just think of who you could be if Hannibal was yours,' he said. "You would be the only private owner of an elephant in the United States.

"I bet you would be surprised at all the things you can do with an elephant. Suppose your garden hose breaks. All you have to do is set out a dozen pails of water. Then call on Hannibal to spray your flowers.

* * *

"AS FOR MOVING furniture or a snowbound car, just have Hannibal put her stout head against anything heavy and she will push it wherever you want it."

"Of course," the salesman admitted, "Hannibal does have a few personal habits that you have to cater to."

One of her habits turned out to be a hearty breakfast and dinner with the day's feeding consisting of one bushel of kale, one bushel of carrots, 10 to 12 quarts of oats and a bale of hay which she alternately uses as a bed and an in-between snack. At present grocery rates this would add up to $42 a week.

Hannibal also is concerned about her complexion and there is nothing she likes more than a nice oily skin. The other day it took four men two hours to give her a beauty treatment using two pounds of pure lanolin.

A department store official said the young elephant was purchased in keeping with the store pet shop's motto that it handles anything from a puppy to a gorilla but the animal's king-sized appetite prompted the decision to seek a quick sale.

Poll Of Demo Chiefs Lists Adlai As Leading Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — An overwhelming majority of Democratic leaders believe Adlai Stevenson is now the best bet to win their party's presidential nomination again in 1956.

The Associated Press today totaled up the results of a poll of 126 Democratic governors, state chairmen and members of the party's national committee.

The Democrats were asked:

"Whom do you consider the leading candidate, in your state, for the presidential nomination?

Their replies were broken down this way:

Stevenson	76
Kefauver	5
Lausche	3
Others, or no comment	39

The poll isn't as one-sided as it might seem.

Some who voted for Stevenson stressed that his margin is so slight it may vanish before the convention is held in August.

At least five politicians couldn't make up their minds, and decided the race was a tossup between Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, an "inactive" candidate so far, got eut three votes. One of these was from Carmine G. DeSapio, who, as a national committeeman and chief of Tammany Hall, should have much to say about how New York's 98 votes are cast in the convention.

* * *

GOV. FRANK J. Lausche of Ohio, running both as a favorite son and for the U. S. Senate, picked up a home vote, plus one from Massachusetts and one from Texas.

Others mentioned as presidential possibilities:

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Some samples of comment:

Jack Toole, chairman of the Montana state committee: "I have just finished a tour of the state and I find that Adlai Stevenson is the most popular man right now."

Tom E. Brown, speaking as an individual and not as the New Mexico chairman: "Stevenson is so far out in front that others don't have a look-in in New Mexico."

Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma: "I believe it is a tossup in Oklahoma right now between Stevenson and Harriman with Harriman on the gain. Kefauver has some pretty strong support too."

Mrs. Myrtle McIntyre, New Hampshire national committeewoman: "I don't think anybody can touch Kefauver in New Hampshire."

New Dust Storm Threat Develops

WASHINGTON (AP)—The threat of new dust storms hangs over wide areas of the Great Plains, the Agriculture Department reports.

Reports from the field as of Dec. 1 indicated, the department said, that dry soils and below normal rain and snowfall have left about 20 million acres of land in 10 Great Plains states in a condition to suffer wind damage.

The department said about 75 per cent of land in a condition to be damaged by storms is in Kansas, Texas and Colorado. The other states are New Mexico, Oklahoma, Montana, Nebraska, the Dakotas and Wyoming.

Ike's Christmas Message To Europeans Hit

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev today accused President Eisenhower of "crude interference" in the affairs of Communist nations, and dismissed his open skies arms inspection as "nothing more than military intelligence."

He boasted that the Soviet hydrogen bomb "can be considerably increased in power." At the same time he criticized Secretary of State Dulles as "advocating massive retaliation and other absurdities."

"Some Western politicians have a strange idea of the Geneva spirit," he asserted. "They want us to disarm our army and also to disarm morally and politically."

Khrushchev said he spoke about Eisenhower critically "most unwillingly" because he respected the President "so much." But, he declared, the President's Christmas message to the people of Eastern European Communist nations "is quite incompatible with the Geneva spirit."

* * *

THIS REFERRED to a presidential message broadcast by Radio Free Europe saying:

"During the Christmas season I want you to know that the American people recognize the trials under which you are suffering; join you in your concern for the restoration of individual freedoms and political liberty; and share your faith that right in the end will prevail to bring you once again among the free nations of the world."

Khrushchev asserted:

"To pray for a change of regime in the people's democracies is crude interference in the internal affairs of those countries and only leads to inciting passions and the armaments race."

Khrushchev repeated the statement he made in India after the recent H-bomb test explosion in the Soviet Union—that the new Russian weapon "was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives."

He said that although "we do not want to boast about our military and technical strength," he wanted to remind the West about the test explosion.

"The power of this weapon was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives and it can be considerably increased," he added. "People who are trying to in-

Dionne Quints Seek To Make Life Of Own

MONTREAL (AP) — A spokesman for the Dionne quintuplets says they are staying away from home to prove they want a life of their own, but they will visit their parents sometime in January.

G. Harold Edwards, a trust company executive who befriended the four sisters while handling their finances, said they had planned to visit the family home at Callender, Ont., for New Year's until their father, Oliva Dionne, charged publicly that "outsiders" were splitting them away from the family.

By going home now they would be "giving in," Edwards explained. He said the quints "want to make a private life of their own."

The four surviving quintuplets, Annette, Cecile, Marie and Yvonne held a small party last night in the apartment they have rented in northwest Montreal. Reporters in the hall outside could hear music and laughter and a young man came to the door when a newsman knocked.

Father Dionne was not reconciled by reports that the girls were upset at his charges and had denied they were breaking away from the family.

"I don't regret having issued the statement," he declared. "The embarrassment we were suffering over the separation became so great we felt obliged to make public how we felt about it. We hold no grudge against the quints. The stories out of Montreal support what we said in the first place—that the girls are being influenced by outsiders."

DROODLES

"TRAP FOR TALL MICE"

Ever since the night my landlady, Mrs. Goonsgarten, was watching TV and Liberace winked at her she's tried to be a Better Person. She's gotten real kind-hearted and refuses to set traps for the mice. Instead, she tries to make them uncomfortable by not heating the house and making noise during the night so they can't sleep. She also has little signs along the baseboard in the kitchen saying "Mousie Go Home!" and "Cheese is Fattening" and "Meow". Unfortunately, her campaign isn't working. I have 8 mice in my room alone and last week I caught them trying to build a trap for me. I'm going to write to Liberace and ask him to growl at Mrs. Goonsgarten and change her back into her normal, iron-hearted, blood-thirsty self.

we will of course see that the proper amounts are paid," Ammer said. He added that the city of Circleville is not involved in the basis for the finding.

Touching upon the insufficient allocations to townships, Examiner Serbu's report said in part:

"It should be noted that Section 5739.23 of the Revised Code requires that the budget commission allocate a certain minimum amount to the townships, to-wit?

"'. . . .the commission shall apportion the estimated amount of the undivided local government fund of the county among the subdivisions in which need for additional revenues has been found, in proportion to the amount of the needs of each as so determined, provided that in counties having a population of less than one hundred thousand, not less than 10 percent shall be distributed to the townships therein.' "

The report then goes on to note that the allocations in 1953 met the statutory minimum, but that "in the year of 1954, a different situation is in evidence."

That year, according to the report, the minimum due the townships was $8,251.30, whereas distribution amounted only to $5,250.

* * *

LATER IN his report, Examiner Serbu wrote:

"Settlement of this finding should be made by using the undistributed balance in the fund plus additional allocations in 1955 over and above the 10 percent minimum to the townships."

Three of the 23 findings were technically placed against Pickaway County Treasurer Bob Colville. Totaling $1,066.38, they were in favor of the official treasury funds and the county's undivided general tax fund.

Colville explained how all three findings resulted from incorrect procedure, and how 80 percent or more of the total amount was adjusted while the examiner was still working here.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department estimated today that 4,200 strikes caused 28 million mandays of idlness in 1955.

The number of work stoppages was 21 per cent greater than the 3,468 reported in 1954. Lost time in 1955 was nearly 24 per cent more than last year.

The review noted that while strike idleness this year exceeded 1954, it was the third best year since the end of World War II. The number of strikes in 1955 was about 20 per cent less than the postwar peak of 5,117 stoppages recorded in 1952.

Approximately 2¾ million workers were involved in the 1955 stoppages, nearly 80 per cent more than the 1,530,000 in 1954. The department said a substantial part of the increase resulted from one or two-day work stoppages in the steel and automobile industries at the time of contract negotiations.

The 1955 estimates were given in a preliminary review of labor-management disputes by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Partly as a result of long-term agreements expiring during this year, the number of work stoppages involving 10,000 or more workers rose to 26 compared with 18 in 1954. The average worker involved in these stoppages was idle about 11 working days in 1955 compared with 17 in 1954.

Disputes over wages and related issues were a major cause in 19 of the 26 largest strikes in 1955.

Federal Mediator John R. Murray also set up talks today between the company and the Independent United Electrical Workers, which has some 10,000 members on strike at 10 additional plants.

Khrushchev declared that agreement on disarmament has been "hindered by a change in the position of the United States."

* * *

HE CHARGED that the United States was not discussing a reduction of armaments but was "putting on the first level only the proposal of President Eisenhower at the Geneva conference about the exchange of aerial photographs."

"How does it differ from military intelligence?" he asked. "It differs in no way at all."

"Some Western politicians have a strange idea of the Geneva spirit. They want us to disarm our army and also to disarm morally and politically. Such conditions are unacceptable.

"The most eager proponents of such unrealistic policy are in the United States, particularly Secretary of State Dulles, who plays a leading role in advocating massive retaliation and other absudrities.

"They are even still using such out-of-date language of the policy of the position-of-strength as 'forcing the Reds to withdraw.' "

He said these people included President Eisenhower, "who spoke a great deal at Geneva of the need to reduce international tension."

He said the Christmas message authors "are not concerned with the saving of souls but with the welfare of their purses."

Khrushchev drew laughter from the delegates with jibes at Dulles' recent statement that Portugal's territories in India had been Portuguese for 400 years.

The United States had been a British colony, the party boss declared, and "if we follow Mr. Dulles' logic, the United States should consider itself as Her Majesty's dominion."

The party boss also charged that Dulles had "openly stated that Goa should belong to Portugal . . . His statement on Goa was a disgrace to a civilized government."

On the Middle East Khrushchev put forth these contentions:

1. The Baghdad Pact violated the Geneva spirit and was signed almost before the ink on the Geneva agreement was dry. Turkey is "mistakenly linking her fate with the aggressive Baghdad Pact."

2. The Soviet Union sympathizes with the desire of Arab nations to win and maintain independence. Jordan is the latest example of Western efforts to involve Arabs "in an aggressive military bloc."

3. "From the first day of its existence, the state of Israel has been taking a hostile, threatening position toward its neighbors. Imperialists are behind Israel, trying to exploit it against the Arabs for their own benefit."

Turning to Germany, Khrushchev said the actual existence of two German states must be taken into account if the West sincerely wants European security. The Western powers' "position is that the German democratic republic should join West Germany and that all its social achievements should be liquidated," he said. He argued that this and the inclusion of a rearmed Germany with the West "would not only fail to guarantee peace and security in Europe but would increase the danger of a new war."

Codification Of City's Laws Now In Hands Of Circleville Council

Codification of Circleville's laws and ordinances — the rearrangement of the city statute books to bring them up to date and eliminate duplication—lacks only council's approval before being completed.

This announcement came from Councilman Richard Penn, who has handled the matter for the city lawmakers. However, he said that Kenny Robbins, city solicitor-elect, will now handle the procedure as part of his duties. Penn explained he was only helping out George Gerhardt, the outgoing city attorney, during the latter's illness.

Council approved the codification idea early in 1954 and signed a contract with a Cincinnati firm on March 31, 1954. They also appropriated $2,600 for the job, according to City Auditor Lillian Young.

The last codification of city laws was nearly 50 years ago—in 1906—according to Penn.

* * *

ACTUAL COST of the codification depends on the number of changes to be made, Penn pointed out. He explained that the present laws are compared with a standard form used by many cities in Ohio. Then from this changes, additions and corrections are determined to bring Circleville's laws into up-to-date form.

Penn said that the Cincinnati firm also is allowed expenses for sending men here to examine the law books, which was done last Summer. He added, however, that no money will actually be paid out until the job is completed, and that time is no factor.

All the changes proposed by the Cincinnati firm are already on tentative record here, Penn said. All that remains now is for council to go over each change and approve or reject it, he added.

"This may call for quite a few extra meetings next year," Penn said. "It's a big job, but one which has to be done. And the only way to do it is for council to sit down and go over each change."

Penn said that some delays came about earlier this year when both he and the Cincinnati firm could not get together because of the press of their own businesses.

Malayan Red Chief Stalks Out Of Parley

BALING, Malaya (AP)—Malayan Communist chief Chin Peng stalked back into the jungle today, breaking up the talks on amnesty for his forces to end Malaya's 7½ years of guerrilla war.

But in walking out, the 36-year-old leader offered to end the fighting when an "elected" Malayan government takes complete control of its military forces from the British, who are now waging much of the fight.

Britain has promised independence or Commonwealth membership eventually to the federation of Malaya, now a protectorate with an elected legislature over which the British high commissioner has veto power. The island crown colony of Singapore also has been given the same promise.

Prince Abdul Rahman, chief minister of the federation who led the negotiations with Chin, will go to London Jan. 1 to begin talks with the British government on Malayan independence. The Red offer to quit fighting appeared to give him a strong talking point.

Chin rejected pointblank a government demand for unconditional surrender of his 3,500 jungle soldiers, most of them Chinese. He declared adamantly as he left the English schoolhouse where the two-day talks had been held: "We will fight at any time and will continue to struggle to the last man."

Examiner Files Report On 4 County Offices

we will of course see that the proper amounts are paid," Ammer said. He added that the city of Circleville is not involved in the basis for the finding.

Touching upon the insufficient allocations to townships, Examiner Serbu's report said in part:

"It should be noted that Section 5739.23 of the Revised Code requires that the budget commission allocate a certain minimum amount to the townships, to-wit?

"'. . . .the commission shall apportion the estimated amount of the undivided local government fund of the county among the subdivisions in which need for additional revenues has been found, in proportion to the amount of the needs of each as so determined, provided that in counties having a population of less than one hundred thousand, not less than 10 percent shall be distributed to the townships therein.'"

The report then goes on to note that the allocations in 1953 met the statutory minimum, but that "in the year of 1954, a different situation is in evidence."

That year, according to the report, the minimum due the townships was $8,251.30, whereas distribution amounted only to $5,250.

* * *

LATER IN his report, Examiner Serbu wrote:

"Settlement of this finding should be made by using the undistributed balance in the fund plus additional allocations in 1955 over and above the 10 percent minimum to the townships."

Three of the 23 findings were technically placed against Pickaway County Treasurer Bob Colville. Totaling $1,066.38, they were in favor of the official treasury funds and the county's undivided general tax fund.

Colville explained how all three findings resulted from incorrect procedure, and how 80 percent or more of the total amount was adjusted while the examiner was still working here.

4200 Strikes Recorded In U.S. In 1955

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department estimated today that 4,200 strikes caused 28 million mandays of idlness in 1955.

The number of work stoppages was 21 per cent greater than the 3,468 reported in 1954. Lost time in 1955 was nearly 24 per cent more than last year.

The review noted that while strike idleness this year exceeded 1954, it was the third best year since the end of World War II. The number of strikes in 1955 was about 20 per cent less than the postwar peak of 5,117 stoppages recorded in 1952.

Approximately 2¾ million workers were involved in the 1955 stoppages, nearly 80 per cent more than the 1,530,000 in 1954. The department said a substantial part of the increase resulted from one or two-day work stoppages in the steel and automobile industries at the time of contract negotiations.

The 1955 estimates were given in a preliminary review of labor-management disputes by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Partly as a result of long-term agreements expiring during this year, the number of work stoppages involving 10,000 or more workers rose to 26 compared with 18 in 1954. The average worker involved in these stoppages was idle about 11 working days in 1955 compared with 17 in 1954.

Disputes over wages and related issues were a major cause in 19 of the 26 largest strikes in 1955.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negotiators for the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers and Westinghouse Electric Corp. made another effort today to settle the 74-day-old strike of 44,000 members at 30 plants of the big electrical manufacturing firm.

A deadlock in negotiations continued after the company late yesterday rejected another union proposal that the dispute be submitted to arbitration.

Federal Mediator John R. Murray also set up talks today between the company and the Independent United Electrical Workers, which has some 10,000 members on strike at 10 additional plants.

Ike's Christmas Message To Europeans Hit

crease tension should remember the results of this test."

Khrushchev declared that agreement on disarmament has been "hindered by a change in the position of the United States."

* * *

HE CHARGED that the United States was not discussing a reduction of armaments but was "putting on the first level only the proposal of President Eisenhower at the Geneva conference about the exchange of aerial photographs."

"How does it differ from military intelligence?" he asked. "It differs in no way at all."

"Some Western politicians have a strange idea of the Geneva spirit. They want us to disarm our army and also to disarm morally and politically. Such conditions are unacceptable.

"The most eager proponents of such unrealistic policy are in the United States, particularly Secretary of State Dulles, who plays a leading role in advocating massive retaliation and other absudities.

"They are even still using such out-of-date language of the policy of the position-of-strength as 'forcing the Reds to withdraw.' "

He said these people included President Eisenhower, "who spoke a great deal at Geneva of the need to reduce international tension."

He said the Christmas message authors "are not concerned with the saving of souls but with the welfare of their purses."

Khrushchev drew laughter from the delegates with jibes at Dulles' recent statement that Portugal's territories in India had been Portuguese for 400 years.

The United States had been a British colony, the party boss declared, and "if we follow Mr. Dulles' logic, the United States should consider itself as Her Majesty's dominion."

The party boss also charged that Dulles had "openly stated that Goa should belong to Portugal . . . His statement on Goa was a disgrace to a civilized government."

On the Middle East Khrushchev put forth these contentions:

1. The Baghdad Pact violated the Geneva spirit and was signed almost before the ink on the Geneva agreement was dry. Turkey is "mistakenly linking her fate with the aggressive Baghdad Pact."

2. The Soviet Union sympathizes with the desire of Arab nations to win and maintain independence. Jordan is the latest example of Western efforts to involve Arabs "in an aggressive military bloc."

3. "From the first day of its existence, the state of Israel has been taking a hostile, threatening position toward its neighbors. Imperialists are behind Israel, trying to exploit it against the Arabs for their own benefit."

Turning to Germany, Khrushchev said the actual existence of two German states must be taken into account if the West sincerely wants European security. The Western powers' "position is that the German democratic republic should join West Germany and that all its social achievements should be liquidated," he said. He argued that this and the inclusion of a rearmed Germany with the West "would not only fail to guarantee peace and security in Europe but would increase the danger of a new war."

Tobacco Growers Voting On Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Growers vote in four separate referenda today on whether federal marketing quotas shall be imposed for the next three years.

Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting in each referendum is required to make the quotas effective on the type of tobacco covered by that referendum.

The tobacco types included in the proposed controls are burley, Virginia-sun cured, Pennsylvania cigar-filler and Maryland. Quotas already have been approved for next year's production of flue-cured, dark-air-cured, fire-cured and other cigar filler and binder types.

Heroes Unsung

At this time of year-end, when so many people are picking their "man of the year", we respectfully nominate all those brave guys throughout the land who rule the Return and Rejection Counters in the nation's big department stores immediately after the Christmas holidays.

It must take a fellow with cast-iron nerves and steel stamina to hassle an eight-hour day with the

Get the size of the stockings changed.

Claim the lamp shade had a hole punched in it when it was delivered.

Palm off something that wasn't bought in that store anyway, or

Just win an argument.

Hades hath no fury like a woman during a buying spree—unless it's a woman who decides she doesn't want to buy it after all.

Fast Switch

That nationwide television network was convinced in a hurry one night just before the Yuletide when it suddenly snapped off a girl singing "Ave Maria" in favor of a lot of routine commercials, all along the line.

The angry reaction, the master of ceremonies admitted a few minutes later, was beginning to tear the telephone switchboard right off the wall. ("And please stop calling in, because she's going to sing it all over again." Which she did a moment later.)

The show was the popular late night program out of New York, but complaints were phoned from all parts of the country!

Even the lords of television have to be shown now and then how the real people actually do see more in Christmas than the dollar sign.

Whispering Stuff

That man holding the key position for one of the town's biggest civic groups may give up the idea of quitting his job with the organization in order to run for office and handle his own business. Friends are trying to sell him the idea that his connection with the civic body will boost his chances at the polls next year.

TV, Radio Said Immoderate In Christmas 'Celebration'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—We Americans used to observe Christmas. Now we celebrate it.

The nation secretly sighs with relief when Christmas is over. Nearly everybody ate too much and many drank too much. Nearly all received too much and most wonder if they gave enough. There was much conspicuous consumption and vying for prominence: children debated over who received the better gifts, and suburban householders tried to string up more lights than their neighbors.

The lip service paid to peace on earth and good will toward men would have caused Isaiah to cover his face with his cloak and Jeremiah to raise both hands to heaven.

Television and radio shared in the general immoderation. Each station, network and program seemed bent on outdoing all others in pouring forth the same music and the same seasonal clinches.

By my count Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" was seen or heard at least four times on national networks. It was too many. Dickens himself grew excruciatingly bored with giving readings of his story.

Cincy Area CD Organization Folding Up

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Civil Defense organization for Cincinnati and Hamilton County will drop out of existence after Saturday — but there are plans for some kind of a substitute setup.

The city and the present CD organization couldn't get together on money matters yesterday so all salaried personnel of the present group were notified that their jobs would be wiped out after Saturday.

It now will be up to a special committee to decide what this second most populous county will do about a Civil Defense organization.

The committee, named at a meeting here yesterday, will consist of Mayor Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati; County Commissioner James R. Clark Jr., and John A. Lloyd, executive committeeman of the present CD organization. Clark will serve as acting director of the Civilian Defense organization until a new program can be put into effect.

New Gain Listed In Savings Bonds

Judge William D. Radcliff, chairman of the Pickaway County Savings Bonds Committee, today reported that Savings Bond sales in Ohio for November were just under $31 million, showing a gain of 15 percent over November, 1954.

"The excellent sales of savings bonds for all of 1955 reflect the importance which the people of Ohio attach to Savings Bonds as an easy and safe way to save. If Ohio can continue these high sales during December, we shall reach the sales quota as established by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey", Judge Radcliff said.

Sales in November for Pickaway County were $66,504, as compared to $50,665 for the same month in 1954.

Liner America Slowed By Storm

NEW YORK (AP)—The liner America docked a day late yesterday from an Atlantic crossing in which furious winds and pounding seas slowed the big vessel almost to crawling speeds at times.

The master, Capt. Frederick Fender, said he was forced to cut speed to 10 knots last Friday in the face of near-hurricane winds up to 70 miles an hour, giant waves and heavy swells.

Normal cruising speed is 23 knots. On this voyage from English Channel ports, the ship averaged only a bit more than 18 knots.

Segregation Ends In St. Louis Housing

ST. LOUIS (AP)—U. S. Dist. Judge George H. Moore has ordered an end to segregation in low-rent public housing projects here.

The order was in answer to a suit filed by a group of Negroes who said they applied for admission into a project now occupied only by whites in 1951 and 1952, but they had not been assigned quarters.

Judge Moore ruled the plaintiffs were eligible for public housing and should be admitted without regard to race or color. His order also required that units now assigned exclusively to Negroes be opened to Whites.

Charity Trust Gets Millions In Decision

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—More than four million dollars was released to a Youngstown charitable trust yesterday as a 13-year-old legal snarl was settled in a hearing before Federal Judge Paul Jones.

The trust, the Leon A. Beeghly Fund, derives royalties from a cold-rolling steel process developed by the late Abram P. Steckel in the 1920's and widely used in the steel industry.

Settled in the agreement were lawsuits by the government and the Beeghly Fund.

The Beeghly suits sought about 42 million dollars from the government in patent infringement cases. The government, in suits filed here in 1943, contended it was entitled to royalty payments made on the cold-rolling process by steel companies that made government steel from 1943 to 1947. The government argued it was not obligated to pay royalties under the wartime Royal-Steel companies, pending settlement of the suits, turned their royalty payments over to the court rather than pay them into the Beeghly Fund.

Old Political Ideas Dying, Youths Told

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The 3,500 delegates attending the Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission have been told that "old political ideas are going bankrupt."

Dr. C. J. Eliezer of the University of Ceylon told the conference last night that people who have lived for centuries "in the political backwaters of the world are experiencing a quickening of the pulse of life."

They are now seeking their "rightful place in the community of nations," he added.

The Rev. Jerald C. Brauer of the University of Chicago related how the church "is responsible for encouraging research for equality and justice."

Conference delegates, mostly college students, represent more than 80 nations and 50 Christian denominations. They are studying their role in furthering the church's work throughout the world.

The six-day meeting, held every four years, is sponsored by the Student Volunteer Movement (a branch of the National Council of Churches), the World Student Christian Movement and the United Student Christian Council. The sessions at Ohio University will end Sunday.

The Beeghly suits sought about 42 million dollars from the government in patent infringement cases. The government, in suits filed here in 1943, contended it was entitled to royalty payments made on the cold-rolling process by steel companies that made government steel from 1943 to 1947. The government argued it was not obligated to pay royalties under the wartime Royal-Steel companies, pending settlement of the suits, turned their royalty payments over to the court rather than pay them into the Beeghly Fund.

Brazilian Papers Grabbed By Police

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—In a predawn raid, police yesterday seized copies of the influential morning newspaper Diario de Noticias on charges of criticizing government censorship.

Police impounded 15,000 copies of the paper just off the press and combed the city's newsstands for another 38,000 already distributed.

Old Political Ideas Dying, Youths Told

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The 3,500 delegates attending the Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission have been told that "old political ideas are going bankrupt."

Dr. C. J. Eliezer of the University of Ceylon told the conference last night that people who have lived for centuries "in the political backwaters of the world are experiencing a quickening of the pulse of life."

They are now seeking their "rightful place in the community of nations," he added.

The Rev. Jerald C. Brauer of the University of Chicago related how the church "is responsible for encouraging research for equality and justice."

Conference delegates, mostly college students, represent more than 80 nations and 50 Christian denominations. They are studying their role in furthering the church's work throughout the world.

The six-day meeting, held every four years, is sponsored by the Student Volunteer Movement (a branch of the National Council of Churches), the World Student Christian Movement and the United Student Christian Council. The sessions at Ohio University will end Sunday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the decade just ending — 1945-1955—communism, on the march, has made tremendous advances. the West, trying to stop it, has lost ground.

Question for the 10 years beginning Sunday: Will the West, particularly the United States, find a way to roll the Reds back or even keep them from advancing another inch? No one can claim his guess is good on this.

Since the beginning of 1945 between 700 and 800 million people have been brought firmly under communism by force: the European satelliets, Yugoslavia, China, North Korea, North Viet Nam in Indo China, Outer Mongolia.

The Reds won nowhere in free elections. They latched on to some places — the satellites — during the war. Others they took afterwards by civil war: China and North Viet Nam. Red governments have been established in all of them since the war.

Nowhere has the West shaken the Reds' grip once they took hold. In a few places it stopped them when they reached out to grab. Nevertheless, Red tactics forced a monumental change in American thinking.

The United States abandoned its historic isolation and got up to its neck in world affairs and foreign alliances.

It made alliances in Europe, Asia, Latin America, the Pacific. Since 1945 it has handed out over 51 billion dollars in aid to friendly countries.

There is no doubt the military alliances and the economic help stopped the Reds from even greater success.

No one can rightfully doubt the Reds will use force again when they think they can get away with it. But in this decade West and East have developed such fantastic weapons they could destroy each other in all out war.

For that reason the Reds may try a softer, but more tedious approach. For instance, by smiles and persuasion and promises of economic help, which they're using now in the vulnerable areas of Southern Asia and the Middle East.

One thing is certain: the Communists will keep on pushing in one way or another. What isn't certain is whether the West can stop them.

State Employe Pay Boost Is Asked

COLUMBUS (AP) — The executive board of the Ohio Civil Service Employes Assn. has formally requested Gov. Frank J. Lausche to include salary increases for state employes on the agenda of the special session of the Legislature set for Jan. 16.

The Legislature goes into session that day to set up machinery for handling the $150 million bond issue voted in the last election for a five-year state building program. Half the amount goes to the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction.

Forest Aide Named

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Forestry Assn. has appointed Gerald B. Fenton of Columbus as treasurer of the organization.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have a friend whom I have known for over 30 years. In all this time I have admired her for one thing or another—for her home, her dress; but, more than anything, for her beautifully mannered children and her graciousness as a hostess. She could entertain two or 20 people with equal poise.

Now her children are grown and away, and she has changed completely. She repeats over and over again: "Nothing is worth doing since the children aren't here." She says missing them is like a physical pain. Yet she has never been a possessive mother. They chose their own schools, professions and associates.

The children all have enviable postions and Nina is very proud of them; but unfortunately their work takes them away from this city and they've settled elsewhere.

She has spells of depression, with uncontrollable sobs and crying. If anything goes wrong with plans she makes, she goes completely to pieces. And just the other day she had a few women in her home, who hadn't met each other before; and it was quite a long time before she remembered to introduce them.

Such absent-minded and distrait actions are so foreign to her that they worry me; and I am appealing to you to tell me how I may help her, without being too obvious.

J. B

DEAR J. B.: In effect your friend is proclaiming "I've had it." She seems to feel there is no more social development ahead for her. As if she never had any purpose, potential or function in adult life, other than to first produce and thereafter nurture children through their dependent phase.

She seems to lack "viability"—which is the essence of livingness. It is the innate capacity for growing; or adapting to changing environment. Perhaps her existence has been too sheltered, for too long—so that she has become ossified in one mode of adaptation, as it were. And consequently tends to crumble and "go to pieces" as her design-for-living is perforce shaken up more recently.

Or to use another figure of speech, she is like a vine that has lost its erstwhile supporting structure. In years past, she festooned her actions and programs about the needs of her children. Now that they no longer need her—at least not urgently, in crucial ways—she is "sunk." Well, this is a misery that most women of middle age experience in some measure; and it depends upon the individual as to how she makes out.

You might say that Nina's life was running full tilt, of its own momentum for a good many years, until the children took off. Since then, her routine may be compared to a clock that has stopped; and that needs re-winding and possibly some inward readjustments and repairs, to get it going stoutly again.

Future Awaits Her

Nina must discover new valid uses for her time, new opportunities for serving society, now that her children are on their own. And heaven knows there is plenty of work to be done, on a community scale, for neglected children the world over. Also for elderly invalids, so-called "incurables" and other shut-ins—to bring the sunshine of faithful helpful interest to their situation.

Nina is going to seed by the introspective route — looking backward in time and mourning the death of the past, as it were, instead of studying her new hand-of-cards with alert resourceful intelligence. As of now, her future may be likened to a procession of empty rooms, awaiting her talent to furnish 'em.

If she turns her back on effort, saying it isn't worthwhile any more, her future years will be empty, sure. But if she faces the truth that "life is what you make it," and mothers the needy since her children are gone, she will fill up with contentment again.

Westinghouse Says 30,000 Get Loans

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. says it made nearly $3 million in Christmas loans to members of two striking unions and other employes idled by the dispute.

A spokesman said that during the week of Dec. 19-23, nearly 30,000 workers received checks for $100 to tide them over Christmas.

The loans were offered to all Westinghouse employes on strike or furloughed for more than 30 days as a result of the strike.

Some 55,000 members of the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers and the independent United Electrical Workers have been striking since October in contract disputes. Another 40,000 workers have been furloughed or are only working part-time.

Those traditional New Year's Day favorites, smoked ham and fresh ham, head the list of weekend specials in the nation's food stores. Turkeys remain a popular feature, too.

There are numerous other good buys. Loins of pork and pork chops continue on the bargain counter. Frying chickens may be down two to four cents a pound.

Egg prices, on the other hand, are headed higher. One chain is upping prices two cents a dozen in New York, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, three cents in Detroit and eight cents in Chicago.

In the vegetable market, potatoes and onions, long among the outstanding buys, moved up a bit.

Also worthwhile purchases are cabbage, bunched carrots, corn, sweet potatoes and bunched beets. Yams are up a little.

Surplus Butter Due For Export

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department will offer an additional 10 million pounds of government-owned surplus butter for sale in the export market on a competitive bid basis.

This offer is identical to one which was concluded recently with the sale of slightly more than six million pounds to Germany.

It was sold largely at prices 5 to 6 cents a pound below the government's regular export price for its butter, acquired under a farm price support program. The regular price is 41 cents a pound.

Let's All Go Shopping!

"Let's All Go Shopping" is a very major problem these days! Knowing what a product's worth isn't as easy today as it was in great grandma's time.

Nowadays we shop for most of our family needs—often in stores that may have half a milion products under one roof. We certainy can't be experts on the many drug and cosmetic products, all the new synthetic fabrics, refrigerators, dishwashers, television sets and all the other luxuries and necessities available.

However, as this year draws to an end with the Christmas season, we can look back over the privileges, pleasures and opportunities that have been made available for us; take an inventory of our personal blessings; and be thankful for the stores of food, clothing, housing, transportation and recreation items.

Each individual buying habit goes a long way in determining the price we pay for purchases as well as the nature of the item purchased. Persuasive advertising and glamorous demonstrations sometime lure people into buying too much—or buying what there is no actual need for.

* * *

ACCORDING to recent research by a budget consultant, impulse or "keeping-up-with-the fellow men" buying is responsible for many money problems. This consultant emphasized the fact often regarded too lightly that credit is simply the privilege of paying in the future for something bought today.

Even though we may disregard that old rule "money in hand before you buy", it is highly beneficial to help ourselves be taught to do better the desirable shopping ways and means we will or should do anyway.

Startling features to further complicate shopping continue in the making. In this land of plentiful blessings and-or ultra-modern products, should we adopt electronic cooking and have that 14-pound Christmas turkey cooked in 90 minutes, or the breakfast or snack egg in 20 seconds?

As to the budget situation—are prices really higher, or are we all cooperatively paying for built in and on conveniences? A continuous flow of services are being added to the farmer's raw materials before they reach the consumer.

Information from the American Institute of Food Distribution says it has been estimated that the housewife of 1925 spent 5½ hours cooking meals each day, whereas the housewife of 1955 spends an hour and a half. This has largely come about because of conveniences which have been added to the food. Who should be the judge as to which is the most important—saving time, money, or self, or a reasonable portion of each?

* * *

IF YOU are interested in a classified checking up on what happens to your dollars and cents, the county extension office has a low price, excellent quality account book which could be added to the New Year's resolution list.

In concluding this shopping visit, let's all get down to some body building statistics—meat and milk.

The average person in the U. S. ate about 4 pounds of lamb in 1954 in contrast to: 73 pounds of beef, 60 pounds of pork, 9.7 pounds of veal and 4.6 pounds of poultry meat. According to USDA, Americans will have eaten 161 pounds of miscellaneous meat per person in 1955. Most of the increase is in pork.

Sales of frozen meats are expected to increase rapidly in the next five years. Frozen meat sales comprise ½ of one percent of total meat sales at the present time. A representative of one of the large meat packing plants predicts that 15 to 20 percent of the meat supply will be sold in frozen form in the next five years.

Milk and dairy products consumption per person increased only 1 percent from 1953 to 1955. The demand appears to have increased for fluid milk, but declined for items high in milk fat.

* * *

THE PRODUCTION as well as consumption of milk began to increase this Fall and promises to reach a new high in 1956 of between 126 and 127 billion pounds.

This year there has been an increase in the number of schools taking part in the special school milk program—from 41,460 schools to 58,516. Ohio ranks among the leaders, with 2,598 schools participating.

That large surplus of milk is satisfactorily diminishing!

Changes In Ohio Poll Laws To Go Into Effect Jan. 1

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown today called attention to a number of changes in the Ohio election laws passed by the 101st General Assembly, and to become effective Jan. 1.

Highlights of these changes are:

Elimination of elections for short, unexpired terms for county offices; elimination of municipal-wide primary elections where the only contest within a party is for councilman from a ward.

Names of presidential electors to be eliminated from the ballot and the secretary of state may prescribe the presidential ballot 75 days prior to the election, instead of 80 days, the requirement for other ballots. These changes were made to meet the emergency created by late national political conventions and to aid in getting the ballots into the hands of members of the armed forces and others in time to vote.

Teeth have been put into the law requiring candidates to file expense statements by disqualifying those who fail to file from being a candidate for five years. Deadline for such filings has been extended from 10 to 30 days, and receipts are now required for expenses of $25 instead of $10.

Minimum salaries of members of the county boards of election are increased from $500 to $600 and the maximum is increased from $5,000 to $6,000.

Persons defeated in a primary are prevented from becoming a candidate at the general election by write-in; boards of elections may adopt registration in any part of a county, as well as the county as a whole; persons cannot be a candidate for nomination or election at a party primary if, during the next preceding four calendar years, they voted as members of a different political party.

Candidates for township offices are permitted to file as a group; political parties are allowed to place a name on the primary ballot if the party's only candidate for the office dies subsequent to the last filing date and prior to the 10th day before the primary.

Loot Returned, But Thugs Still Sought

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Police are still looking for two gunmen who robbed a service station last Monday but returned the $78 in loot unexpectedly.

The robbers held two attendants at gunpoint about midnight Monday, and tore a telephone off the wall before departing.

Tuesday, another attendant, Ward Ceyler, said a man used the station washroom, and after he left, an anonymous call on the repaired phone told him to go look in the washroom for an envelope.

Inside was the $78, and a note saying the bandits were sorry for what they had done and hoped they had not caused any inconvenience.

FOUNDATIONS FILL A GAP

HARDLY A WEEK passes that doesn't provide an announcement that some Foundation is giving millions of dollars to worthy projects. The latest was the Rockefellers' Sealantic Fund's grant of $10 million to six theological schools.

The Foundation as a major factor in American financial, educational, scientific and cultural life is a fairly recent development. Only in the last few years have foundations begun spreading money around to so many worthy causes.

Fifty years ago the great tycoons of industry and business had their private philanthropies. These were on a hit-and-miss basis but they did provide the means for existence of many small colleges, institutions and charitable organizations.

Then, as income taxes pushed higher and higher, the great moguls of industry found themselves able to make and keep less and less of their money. One solution was to turn over the millions to foundations which are tax-free. This is what happened to the great Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller fortunes.

Colleges and hospitals no longer can depend on private endowments to support their activities on the expanded scale dictated by modern life. So, the foundations are attempting to fill the gap.

THROW BOOK AWAY

FIXATIONS OF Marxist doctrinaires are marvelous but defeating. Take the Marxists in Russia. The book told them that collective farms are the thing—each putting in according to his ability and taking out according to his needs. So for 35 years they have been trying to force agricultural communism on the Russian people through blood, sweat and tears.

A recent Russian report shows that the average family gets about $750 per year for its work on a collective farm. Purchasing power of that low sum is less than it sounds because Soviet prices are higher than those in the United States.

The Soviet farm family is able to supplement this income a bit. Each family gets a fraction of an acre for a garden, a cow, pig or poultry. Soviet leaders complain that the Russian farmers work harder on their own little plots than on the collective farms.

Of course they do. They have private enterprise incentives, same as other peoples. If the Kremlin would give these incentives free rein, Russia's farm production would gain substantially. Therein is the amazing phase of that fixation. Why don't the Moscow lads get next to themselves, throw the book away and convert Russia into a land of plenty?

Few men will be surprised to learn that Christmas business in the U. S. set a new record when they receive the bills for holiday purchases.

If this is the sort of winter oldtimers have been insisting was common years ago, why didn't someone invent electric blankets sooner?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

If somebody like Paul Robeson cannot get a passport, or if an alien like the Red Dean of Canterbury cannot get a visa, a terrific fuss is made on the subject and it is even written:

"The effect is not only to discourage persons in these countries from visiting the United States, but to discourage from visiting us those very persons who may be best qualified to dispel the misconceptions and fantastic notions about the United States which have been inspired unconsciously by visiting service men and Hollywood and consciously by the Communists and their fellow-travelers."

For the fiscal year 1955, 689,674 immigrants and visitors received visas and 473,703 passports were issued during the first 10 months. Only 401 persons were refused passports for other than the fact that they did not fill out their applications completely and accurately.

Of the 401, 13 were refused passports because they are Communists and six because they are engaged in political activities which abroad would be harmful to the United States. The largest number of rejections, 300, were over citizenship, that is, their American citizenship is in doubt or does not exist.

Non-quota visas, issued under the Refugee Relief Act, amounting to 52,072, show an increase up to December 9, 1955.

In all these matters, an element of reciprocity must be considered. For instance, visas have been extended from two to four years when there is reciprocity by the other country. There is no reason why the United States should offer benefits which other countries refuse for Americans.

Immigration to the United States has been on the constant increase since the end of World War II. For instance, in 1946, 337,388 immigrants of all kinds entered this country; for the fiscal year 1955, this figure has reached 689,674. Since World War II, from 1946 through 1955, 5,254,634 persons have entered the United States as visitors or immigrants. Of this number 1,994,828 were either quota or non-quota immigrants. The argument therefore that this country has set up a star-spangled curtain is untenable from the figures.

It is interesting to note that few of the quotas are filled. For instance, Austria, which has a quota of 1,405, sent only 731 immigrants; Italy comes closest to filling its quota of 5,645 by sending 5,093 immigrants.

However, Italy sent 7,523 non-quota immigrants, making a total for the fiscal year 1955 of 12,616 immigrants altogether. Soviet Russia has a quota of 2,697 and sent 1,245 quota immigrants and 143 non-quota. It does not say how these immigrants actually got out of Russia.

Many reasons exist for not issuing passports, apart from those already stated; namely, mentally ill, likely to become public charges, habitual criminals, refugees from justice, etc. Cleaning up the passports at the American end serves American citizens because since we are strict, such countries as Great Britain, France, Spain and an increasing number of other countries accept the American passport at face value and do not require a visa.

About 500,000 Americans travel abroad every year and this is a convenience for them. If Judge Luther Youngdahl's decision is to prevail, the Passport Office will do no investigating but will become merely an office of issue and the American passport will lose its value almost of a guarantee of fitness to enter another country. At any rate, it is to be presumed that the reason that visas are waived is that other countries do not care who comes into them which is untenable.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

LORA rocked comfortably for a few moments in John Ambrose's cottage. Ambrose began clearing the table, carrying dishes to the sink. She was glad that he chose to keep busy while she sat there sorting her thoughts.

"You've done a lot for the Tyler household," he said, pumping water into a pan. "Jemmy tells me you've even got his grandmother sitting up again running things."

Lora nodded. "Was Mrs. Tyler always like this? I mean so domineering and—and unreasonable?"

"She has a lot of her pa in her," Ambrose said. "Old Jason Cowles was all iron and nails and I guess she took after him pretty much."

"I believe you like her," Lora said softly. He looked around at her then. "I have liked her for a good many years, ma'am," he said simply.

Then Lora said slowly, "Tell me about Wade when he was little."

"Wade wasn't like either of his parents, he was more like his rowdy father than he was like Mrs. Tyler. But she was bound she could change nature and turn him into the spittin' image of old Jason, his grandfather. Everything he was good at she made nothing of, and she used to nag all the time to turn him into what he wasn't. Even his papa got sorry for the boy sometimes, but he didn't dare interfere, and anyway he wasn't much for the father stuff—not him. I never saw a little tyke who needed to be loved more than that Wade boy. He did fine, too, away from home. Girls always liked him and lots of the boys did, too—except the real roughnecks. He was plenty smart when he forgot that his mother thought he was stupid. Outside, people listened to him and made a lot of him. And he warmed to that the way Jemmy warms to you."

"Virginia listened to him, didn't she?" Lora asked gently.

His back was to her and he didn't speak for a minute. He hung up his dish towel and came toward the fireplace.

"Virginia thought Wade was Apollo and Lancelot and Abelard rolled into one. But I guess he didn't believe all that himself. Maybe, in a way, he was leaning on her belief, instead of his own. That's why you're good for him—he's beginning to find out he has some belief in himself after all."

"But am I good for him?" Lora murmured. "I hadn't thought of it like that."

He reached toward the mantelpiece for a pipe in a cracked bowl, then remembered his company and drew back his hand.

"Please smoke," Lora said quickly. "My father always smoked a pipe. I liked it."

He took the pipe down and packed it with tobacco, held a taper to the fire and lighted the fragrant weed. Then he drew the other rocker up to the fire beside her.

"One thing I can't understand," Lora said, "is why Wade should include you in his feud with Morgan."

"That's simple enough." Ambrose rocked for a moment and drew on his pipe. "He offered me a home in his house after we lost Virginia. My wife had died a while back. But I decided to stay with Morgan. Funny thing, Lora—maybe it makes no sense, but no matter how much of everything Morgan's got these days, I still feel like I need to be around, standing by. Just in case what she's got doesn't turn out to be enough after all."

"I'm sure she doesn't appreciate that."

"It makes no matter. Something inside me bids me do this. But you can guess how much it peeved Wade. He wanted nothing to do with her, and when I chose to make my home here, he was mad enough to include me in the way he felt about her."

"Thank you for telling me these things," Lora said, "I'm not prying idly—I want so much to understand. Serena has told me a few things, too. So has Jemmy. And even Morgan. I can fit all the bits and pieces together and begin to see the pattern. But, John, I'd hate to feel that human beings can only be what they are made to be. I don't want to believe that Wade, or Jemmy, or Mother Tyler, or I can only be part of a set pattern that was fixed in the beginning."

"I know what you mean, Lorie," he said.

Her eyes blurred at the sound of the name he must have picked up from Jemmy. Hearing him use it was like hearing it on Doc's lips.

Ambrose reached toward the bookcase beside him and pulled a volume from the shelf. "Just the same, Lorie, there's a weaving to start with we can't much help. There's a casting of the colors and a starting of the pattern that we've nothing to say about. Something's handed us and we have to go on with it. But the going on is up to us."

She went down the hill slowly. The sun was high and warm now—a true spring day bestowed as a gift before May was here to sanction spring's appearance. The breeze that had blown the mist away rippled the surface of the little pool in the woods. A soft, rippling motion sped across the surface. Like quicksilver, Lora thought, remembering Jemmy's words.

She turned away from the pool, found the place where the path opened on the downhill side. For the first time she was shaken in her convictions that she had been right in trying to persuade Wade to work with Morgan Channing and the Knights of the Golden Circle.

Then one night in April Wade came home from a meeting at Morgan's bearing news.

Lora had gone to sleep, but his tap at her door woke her and she called to him to come in. Only embers burned on the hearth, but he knelt to renew the fire without lighting a candle. Lora lay beneath the covers and waited till the fire was going and he had pulled up a hassock where he could stretch out his lame leg.

Every now and then he came to her room like this to talk for a while and then went away again. Sometimes a sudden flare of love-making might follow, but more often not. It was as though Wade were gradually coming to accept her as a person in herself, instead of as a substitute or as an image he could put into Virginia's place. Now he made love to her only when caught up in the old, dangerous make-believe, and she was relieved to find these times coming less often.

She had an affection for him, yes. Perhaps even a growing affection, but it was not that of sweetheart for lover, or wife for husband. She still shrank within herself at his kisses and could only lie inert beneath his touch.

1955: Prosperous, Happy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It is time to take a backward look at 1955 and figure what kind of year it has been.

It was, above all, a year of prosperity for everybody and everything, from the common man to the common cold.

The nation earned its highest income in history, and loan offices did a land office business. Times were so good that inmates of an Alabama prison printing shop even began making their own money.

The price of pork fell, and every group ate higher on the hog except the farmers who raised the pork—and maybe the Republican party.

It was a year in which it became possible to win $100,000 on a television quiz contest, and a fellow who bought a new Cadillac met the jeer: "What's the matter, stupid, couldn't you answer the $64,000 question?"

It was a year in which the booming, organ voice of Sir Winston Churchill was stilled in retirement, leaving a world still stirred with mighty echoes.

It was a year in which Santa author, Harry S. Truman, made his first real bid for the Nobel literary prize.

It was a year in which anta Claus met a formidable competitor in philanthropy. Santa took care of you and me, and the Ford Foundation took care of the private colleges and hospitals.

It was a year in which parents learned why Johnny can't read, but nobody took the trouble to discover just how many parents themselves still remember how to read.

It was the year in which Russian leaders graduated with honors from the Geneva charm cchool, then forgot their lessons and went right on back to acting like Russians again.

It was a year when man finally localized his major wars down to riots, rebellions and revolutions, but Mother Nature ran wild with floods, hurricanes, droughts and tornadoes.

It was a year in which Notre Dame lost a football game and the New York Yankees lost a World Series.

Biggest surprise of the year: the French overturned another cabinet (or was it four cabicabinets?)".

Most popular industrialist: Heinz Nordhoff, president of a West German auto firm, who said in upholding a six-day work week: "Most people live only to escape themselves. For them, another weekday without work would only increase the emptiness and disconsolateness caused by idling away spare time."

Most publicized wedding: The AFL-CIO marriage. (But which was the bride?)

Scientific advance least likely to succeed: a British love test machine which seeks to tell by measuring the brain waves of a boy and girl whether they ought to marry each other.

Most far-reaching development in government: the decision of the British postoffice, once and for all, to quit supplying escorts to drunks who wish to mail themselves home.

All in all, 1955 has been quite a year, one with less fear and more prosperity and laughs than we have known for a long time.

Relieving Painful Muscles

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Does this sound impossible? Well, it isn't. The treatment employs use of ultrasound waves and its effectiveness is being demonstrated every day.

Ultrasonic energy relieves pain and spasm in muscles and helps get the sore muscle back in working order again. Doctors say it is especially effective in treating bursitis, fibrositis, periarthritis and capsulitis.

Sound Waves

These sound waves have frequencies beyond our hearing range. Because of the energy involved in the motion, they produce a soothing heating effect.

Generally, a series of treatments ranges between six and twelve daily applications given in succession. The length of the treatments ranges from a minimum of five minutes at first and increases gradually to a maximum of 15 minutes.

Doctors advise against these new treatments, however, on the eyes, heart, genitalia, growing bones and other specific areas.

Two Methods

Since air is not dense enough to permit easy passage of these ultrasound waves, two methods are used to get these healing waves to the source of the pain.

One is the direct method of application in which petroleum jelly, liquid paraffin, mineral or castor oil are applied to the body to serve as a binding agent between the skin and the treating apparatus. In the other, water is used as the conducting agent.

Both the part of the body to be treated and the apparatus are held under water throughout the treatment.

Answer: Sometimes a lack of thyroid hormone may be at fault in circulatory difficulties. However, this is not often the case.

Then Lora said slowly, "Tell me about Wade when he was little."

"Wade wasn't like either of his parents, he was more like his rowdy father than he was like Mrs. Tyler. But she was bound she could change nature and turn him into the spittin' image of old Jason, his grandfather. Everything he was good at she made nothing of, and she used to nag all the time to turn him into what he wasn't. Even his papa got sorry for the boy sometimes, but he didn't dare interfere, and anyway he wasn't much for the father stuff—not him. I never saw a little tyke who needed to be loved more than that Wade boy. He did fine, too, away from home. Girls always liked him and lots of the boys did, too—except the real roughnecks. He was plenty smart when he forgot that his mother thought he was stupid. Outside, people listened to him and made a lot of him. And he warmed to that the way Jemmy warms to you."

"Virginia listened to him, didn't she?" Lora asked gently.

His back was to her and he didn't speak for a minute. He hung up his dish towel and came toward the fireplace.

"Virginia thought Wade was Apollo and Lancelot and Abelard rolled into one. But I guess he didn't believe all that himself. Maybe, in a way, he was leaning on her belief, instead of his own. That's why you're good for him—he's beginning to find out he has some belief in himself after all."

"But am I good for him?" Lora murmured. "I hadn't thought of it like that."

He reached toward the mantelpiece for a pipe in a cracked bowl, then remembered his company and drew back his hand.

"Please smoke," Lora said quickly. "My father always smoked a pipe. I liked it."

He took the pipe down and packed it with tobacco, held a taper to the fire and lighted the fragrant weed. Then he drew the other rocker up to the fire beside her.

"One thing I can't understand," Lora said, "is why Wade should include you in his feud with Morgan."

"That's simple enough." Ambrose rocked for a moment and drew on his pipe. "He offered me a home in his house after we lost Virginia. My wife had died a while back. But I decided to stay with Morgan. Funny thing, Lora—maybe it makes no sense, but no matter how much of everything Morgan's got these days, I still feel like I need to be around, standing by. Just in case what she's got doesn't turn out to be enough after all."

"I'm sure she doesn't appreciate that."

"It makes no matter. Something inside me bids me do this. But you can guess how much it peeved Wade. He wanted nothing to do with her, and when I chose to make my home here, he was mad enough to include me in the way he felt about her."

"Thank you for telling me these things," Lora said, "I'm not prying idly—I want so much to understand. Serena has told me a few things, too. So has Jemmy. And even Morgan. I can fit all the bits and pieces together and begin to see the pattern. But, John, I'd hate to feel that human beings can only be what they are made to be. I don't want to believe that Wade, or Jemmy, or Mother Tyler, or I can only be part of a set pattern that was fixed in the beginning."

"I know what you mean, Lorie," he said.

Her eyes blurred at the sound of the name he must have picked up from Jemmy. Hearing him use it was like hearing it on Doc's lips.

Ambrose reached toward the bookcase beside him and pulled a volume from the shelf. "Just the same, Lorie, there's a weaving to start with we can't much help. There's a casting of the colors and a starting of the pattern that we've nothing to say about. Something's handed us and we have to go on with it. But the going on is up to us."

She went down the hill slowly. The sun was high and warm now—a true spring day bestowed as a gift before May was here to sanction spring's appearance. The breeze that had blown the mist away rippled the surface of the little pool in the woods. A soft, rippling motion sped across the surface. Like quicksilver, Lora thought, remembering Jemmy's words.

She turned away from the pool, found the place where the path opened on the downhill side. For the first time she was shaken in her convictions that she had been right in trying to persuade Wade to work with Morgan Channing and the Knights of the Golden Circle.

Then one night in April Wade came home from a meeting at Morgan's bearing news.

Lora had gone to sleep, but his tap at her door woke her and she called to him to come in. Only embers burned on the hearth, but he knelt to renew the fire without lighting a candle. Lora lay beneath the covers and waited till the fire was going and he had pulled up a hassock where he could stretch out his lame leg.

Every now and then he came to her room like this to talk for a while and then went away again. Sometimes a sudden flare of lovemaking might follow, but more often not. It was as though Wade were gradually coming to accept her as a person in herself, instead of as a substitute or as an image he could put into Virginia's place. Now he made love to her only when caught up in the old, dangerous make-believe, and she was relieved to find these times coming less often.

She had an affection for him, yes. Perhaps even a growing affection, but it was not that of sweetheart for lover, or wife for husband. She still shrank within herself at his kisses and could only lie inert beneath his touch.

1955: Prosperous, Happy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It is time to take a backward look at 1955 and figure what kind of year it has been.

It was, above all, a year of prosperity for everybody and everything, from the common man to the common cold.

The nation earned its highest income in history, and loan offices did a land office business. Times were so good that inmates of an Alabama prison printing shop even began making their own money.

The price of pork fell, and every group ate higher on the hog except the farmers who raised the pork—and maybe the Republican party.

It was a year in which it became possible to win $100,000 on a television quiz contest, and a fellow who bought a new Cadillac met the jeer: "What's the matter, stupid, couldn't you answer the $64,000 question?"

It was a year in which the booming, organ voice of Sir Winston Churchill was stilled in retirement, leaving a world still stirred with mighty echoes.

It was a year in which Santa author, Harry S. Truman, made his first real bid for the Nobel literary prize.

It was a year in which anta Claus met a formidable competitor in philanthropy. Santa took care of you and me, and the Ford Foundation took care of the private colleges and hospitals.

It was a year in which parents learned why Johnny can't read, but nobody took the trouble to discover just how many parents themselves still remember how to read.

It was the year in which Russian leaders graduated with honors from the Geneva charm school, then forgot their lessons and went right on back to acting like Russians again.

It was a year when man finally localized his major wars down to riots, rebellions and revolutions, but Mother Nature ran wild with floods, hurricanes, droughts and tornadoes.

It was a year in which Notre Dame lost a football game and the New York Yankees lost a World Series.

Biggest surprise of the year: the French overturned another cabinet (or was it four cabicabinets?)".

Most popular industrialist: Heinz Nordhoff, president of a West German auto firm, who said in upholding a six-day work week: "Most people live only to escape themselves. For them, another weekday without work would only increase the emptiness and disconsolateness caused by idling away spare time."

Most publicized wedding: The AFL-CIO marriage. (But which was the bride?)

Scientific advance least likely to succeed: a British love test machine which seeks to tell by measuring the brain waves of a boy and girl whether they ought to marry each other.

Most far-reaching development in government: the decision of the British postoffice, once and for all, to quit supplying escorts to drunks who wish to mail themselves home.

All in all, 1955 has been quite a year, one with less fear and more prosperity and laughs than we have known for a long time.

Relieving Painful Muscles

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Does this sound impossible? Well, it isn't. The treatment employs use of ultrasound waves and its effectiveness is being demonstrated every day.

Ultrasonic energy relieves pain and spasm in muscles and helps get the sore muscle back in working order again. Doctors say it is especially effective in treating bursitis, fibrositis, periarthritis and capsulitis.

Sound Waves

These sound waves have frequencies beyond our hearing range. Because of the energy involved in the motion, they produce a soothing heating effect.

Generally, a series of treatments ranges between six and twelve daily applications given in succession. The length of the treatments ranges from a minimum of five minutes at first and increases gradually to a maximum of 15 minutes.

Doctors advise against these new treatments, however, on the eyes, heart, genitalia, growing bones and other specific areas.

Two Methods

Since air is not dense enough to permit easy passage of these ultrasound waves, two methods are used to get these healing waves to the source of the pain.

One is the direct method of application in which petroleum jelly, liquid paraffin, mineral or castor oil are applied to the body to serve as a binding agent between the skin and the treating apparatus. In the other, water is used as the conducting agent.

Both the part of the body to be treated and the apparatus are held under water throughout the treatment.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

H. R.: I have poor circulation. Could this be caused by a thyroid condition?

Answer: Sometimes a lack of thyroid hormone may be at fault in circulatory difficulties. However, this is not often the case.

Record 600 Persons Attend 26th Annual Mistletoe Ball

Big Festive Event Held In Coliseum

An all-time attendance record was set Wednesday night when approximately 600 persons, dressed in their holiday best, danced at the 26th annual Mistletoe Ball in the County Fairgrounds Coliseum. The previous attendance record was approximately 550 persons.

Music for the festive event was furnished by Howdy Gorman's 13-piece orchestra the Ohio Staters, which featured a female vocalist.

The coliseum, elaborately decorated in the holiday theme, had a false ceiling of red and green streamers which were gathered in the center where there hung a huge "kissing ring" of mistletoe.

Many small parties were held prior to and after the dance. Out-of-town guests were numerous and many college students and servicemen, home for the holidays, were among the 600 persons at the dance.

Proceeds of the Ball, sponsored annually by the Circleville Kiwanis Club, go towards charity. Funds are used for the Club's underprivileged children program, the Ted Lewis Park summer program and other projects.

Skin Blemishes Upset Youngsters; Care Advised

Youngsters often are tortured by unsightly blemishes at the time of their first date.

Medical care may be sought to help disturbed skin. Young people often will take professional advice rather than that offered by well-meaning family, relatives and friends.

Disturbed skins are usually excessively oily. Diet plays a part in controlling overly-active skin glands, which can cause pimples, blackheads, enlarged pores. Youthful skin is likely to become firmer and coarser, and normal bacteria present can kick up a fuss on an epidermis already weakened by infection.

What to do while you follow the doctor's treatment? Do you have to give up dates and dancing?

You'll want to be careful about makeup. If the doctor hasn't prescribed a special cleanser, use one of the medicated cream masks to cleanse away oil and grime. Work it into the skin gently, then wash it away with a clean cloth or sponge. Apply a medicated lotion before going to bed, and before applying powder.

Most physicians will advise that giving up an overabundance of sweets, starches, fried foods, nuts and some fatty meats, so appealing to youth, will help clear up young skin in jiffy time.

Fresh fruit, vegetables and lean meats are recommended usually during this period. Outdoor exercise and lots of water are two other suggestions to help the skin.

Record 600 Persons Attend 26th Annual Mistletoe Ball

Big Festive Event Held In Coliseum

An all-time attendance record was set Wednesday night when approximately 600 persons, dressed in their holiday best, danced at the 26th annual Mistletoe Ball in the County Fairgrounds Coliseum. The previous attendance record was approximately 550 persons.

Music for the festive event was furnished by Howdy Gorman's 13-piece orchestra the Ohio Staters, which featured a female vocalist.

The coliseum, elaborately decorated in the holiday theme, had a false ceiling of red and green streamers which were gathered in the center where there hung a huge "kissing ring" of mistletoe.

Many small parties were held prior to and after the dance. Out-of-town guests were numerous and many college students and servicemen, home for the holidays, were among the 600 persons at the dance.

Proceeds of the Ball, sponsored annually by the Circleville Kiwanis Club, go towards charity. Funds are used for the Club's underprivileged children program, the Ted Lewis Park summer program and other projects.

Skin Blemishes Upset Youngsters; Care Advised

Youngsters often are tortured by unsightly blemishes at the time of their first date.

Medical care may be sought to help disturbed skin. Young people often will take professional advice rather than that offered by well-meaning family, relatives and friends.

Disturbed skins are usually excessively oily. Diet plays a part in controlling overly - active skin glands, which can cause pimples, blackheads, enlarged pores. Youthful skin is likely to become firmer and coarser, and normal bacteria present can kick up a fuss on an epidermis already weakened by infection.

What to do while you follow the doctor's treatment? Do you have to give up dates and dancing?

You'll want to be careful about makeup. If the doctor hasn't prescribed a special cleanser, use one of the medicated cream masks to cleanse away oil and grime. Work it into the skin gently, then wash it away with a clean cloth or sponge. Apply a medicated lotion before going to bed, and before applying powder.

Most physicians will advise that giving up an overabundance of sweets, starches, fried foods, nuts and some fatty meats, so appealing to youth, will help clear up young skin in jiffy time.

Fresh fruit, vegetables and lean meats are recommended usually during this period. Outdoor exercise and lots of water are two other suggestions to help the skin.

U.S. Women Tighten Grip On Economy

Many An Industry In Setting Policies Points To Frail Sex

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The frail sex grows steadily stronger—industrially and financially—thanks to electronics and statistics.

With more women working all the time, and at jobs once considered only man's work, making more money and living longer to spend it, business increasingly tilts its products and processes their way.

And the more push button the better, as the banks have found in their quest for a stable labor force.

At the other end of the battle in the insurance game to let women shave three years off their age for premium payment as well as conversational purposes.

In the products field, power steering made its first great appeal to the woman driver. Men liked it but wouldn't admit they weren't strong enough to park a car easily.

Electric typewriters ease the daily toil of the tired stenographer. Prepared and prepackaged foods make homework easier for feminine breadwinners returning from the office or factory.

Now automation may see to it that the female with pushbuttons at her fingertips is the equal of the male in industry.

And the women will tell you it's high time, too. Around one third of the 54 million of the nation's women over 14 years of age are reported working now. Their total number is one third higher than before World War II.

Some 18 million women at work are under 65 and about a half million others are past that age. In the younger group the greatest percentage are in clerical or sales jobs. In the older group nearly half are in service jobs. But nearly a third of the younger group and a fifth of the older are doing professional, technical or industrial work.

Banks, for instance, now employ more women than men. And in some sections of the land there are more women bank vault custodians than men, and more women branch bank managers.

Since surveys show that in many sections there are more women than men locking away the money at night and taking it out again in the morning, one maker of safes has come up with a pushbutton door for bank vaults. The Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co. of Hamilton, Ohio, says that all the woman banker has to do is touch a fingertip to an electronically controlled button, and then things happen automatically: Massive locking bolts are withdrawn, the pressure system is released, the multi-ton door swings open, the footbridge is lowered.

And if the electric power fails? Oh, says the company, then the vault can be operated manually—by any man handy.

Since women are slowly getting their hands on much of the nation's wealth and live longer than men to enjoy it, the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. statisticians in Hartford, Conn., are among those who figure she could get an age break on insurance premiums. They have a new policy that lets a woman of 35 pay the same premium as a man of 32. Over a 20 year span she is said to save $1,000 in payments compared to a man really her age.

Overboard Seaman Swims 29 Hours

MIAMI (AP)—A Norwegian seaman who fell overboard Christmas Eve has told how he swam for 29 hours in the Florida Straits before being picked up.

Arne Nicolaysen, a seaman aboard the Norwegian freighter Hoegh Silverspray, told the captain of the British freighter Surveyor that he did not recall how he fell into the sea.

Nicolaysen, who is reported recovered from his ordeal, said he saw about 20 ships pass while in the water but that none was near enough to hear his cries for help.

FARM NEWS and VIEWS

By R. S. SWENSON, County Agent

Let's Take A Look

Each year I make an attempt to summarize some of the important things that have occurred in the agriculture picture in the county during the past year. The information I give here has been given by many leaders of various segments of agriculture in Pickaway County and I want to offer them my thanks.

Perhaps the greatest thing and the most talked about part of our agriculture was the sharp break in the prices of hogs during the year. The top price for 200 to 220 pound butchers at the local market was $18.50 in January and dropped to a low of $11.50 during November and December.

The price break is especially significant since approximately 38 percent of the agriculture income in Pickaway County comes from hogs.

The cattle market during the year has not fared so badly. The average top price of fat cattle has averaged $20 or more during the entire year. The cattle market, as well as the lamb market, can be described as having been steady.

The price of the two major cash grain crops has also dropped off somewhat. Wheat ranged from a high of $2.12 to $1.65 per bushel. Corn has been priced from $1.40 to $.97 per bushel during 1955.

The price of milk has also varied somewhat during the year. The prices of Grade B milk have ranged from $3.00 per hundred weight in late summer to $3.35 during the latter part of the year.

A top of $5.00 per hundred weight was paid for Grade A milk in August and a low of $3.40 during the month of May. The prices of 92 score butter have ranged from 56¾ to 60 cents per pound.

The objective of this column this week is not to point out the reasons for the price drop but rather to report what has happened.

The average corn yields in Pickaway County in 1955 was down an estimated 10 percent from 1954. Oats and wheat yields remained about the same as the previous year.

It is clearly evident in looking at these figures that the general price level of things the Pickaway County farmer has to sell has declined during the year while at the same time the average price of the products farmers need to buy has remained about the same.

The price of products made from steel increased approximately 10 percent during September and October. On the other hand, the price of seed dropped nearly 50 percent from early Spring until late in the year.

The price of fertilizer, sprays, insecticides, veterinarian supplies, etc. has remained approximately the same throughout the year.

The government program on price supports and average allotments has not changed to a great extent during 1955. The ASC office reports that the acreage allotment for wheat in Pickaway County for 1956 is 580 acres less than in 1955. Corn allotments will not be announced until February. However, it is predicted that the corn acreage allotments will probably remain about the same.

The important item for farmers to consider in 1956 will be the more rigid inspection and control of the quality of wheat marketed during the year. I mention this because the 1956 wheat crop was planted in 1955.

The financial situation of Pickaway County farmers seems to be relatively stable. There has been no material increase in borrowing during the year, however, loans have been consolidated. In many cases commercial and time deposits have decreased somewhat. There has also been a decrease in investments.

The farmer seems to be ultra-conservative when buying major items. This seems to indicate that farmers, in some cases, are using some of their savings as operating capital.

There has been an increasing awareness of the value of soil conservation as it applies to the entire farm as opposed to single conservation practices. The SCS office reports that during the past year they worked with a small number of farmers but feel that considerably more was accomplished in the way of conservation.

The rainfall for Pickaway County during the year was short by approximately 4 inches as compared to the normal rainfall. This is less than the deficit for 1953 and 1954. However, the rainfall distribution during the year, particularly through a band through the center of the county running from east to west, was good.

The year 1955 brought quite a change in the extension service of Pickaway County. George Hamrick, associate county agent, assumed his duties June 16. And Weta Mae Leist, secretary, started work in May.

We feel that several notable accomplishments were made during the year.

In the 4-H group program, George Hamrick coached three boys to the state championship in the State Fair beef judging contest. Also two girls received free trips to the National 4-H Club Congress after winning first place in the state with canning and safety projects.

Approximately 200 attended 4-H Camp at Tar Hollow. A total of 649 4-H club members completed over 1,000 projects. 4-H members won the best barn exhibit at the Ohio State Fair. A Junior Fair Board was organized, and all attendance records were broken at Youth Day at the Pickaway County Fair.

Approximately 1,300 attended the 4-H Barbecue.

Activities in agriculture included the Conservation Field Day on August 10 with 500 people attending; 300 high school students attended the annual Soil Conservation Essay Contest Field Day; a milk ring test for brucellosis was conducted in February and again in December; a number of visitors from foreign countries were entertained, including folks from Burma, India, Southern Rhodesia, Brazil, Turkey, and Germany; the Cattle Feeders Breed Associations, dairy service unit, agronomy and extension advisory committees were all active during the year.

The writer missed several shots at pheasants on opening day of hunting season. Pheasants were plentiful for the man who had a good eye. Rabbits were also in good supply. The writer just began his second year of association with people in Pickaway County.

The cooperation and assistance given the extension service by all groups and agencies was generally whole-hearted and it is greatly appreciated. Vocational agriculture teachers, soil conservation service personnel, FHA heads, ASC personnel, Farm Bureau members, granges, implement dealers, businessmen, and cooperatives all had a part in making the 1955 program in agriculture and home economics a success.

Livestock Water

Providing plenty of warm water for livestock during the Winter will pay off in the milk bucket or over the scales. It is cheaper to use electricity, or oil, to warm water before the livestock drink it than to use expensive feeds to do the job after it is in the animals stomach.

Controlling Grubs and Lice

Cattle grubs or "warbles" will begin showing up in the barks of cattle in Pickaway County in January. The grubs form cysts just beneath the skin of cattle after having traveled through muscular tissue from hairs on the legs. The grubs cut holes in the skin of the back through which they "breath" for a few weeks before leaning and dropping to the ground.

The grub is the larvae of the heel fly and it is at this stage the life cycle of the fly can be broken.

Tonsillectomies Set For 7 In Family

WEBB CITY, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. W.F. Watts, Miller, Mo., and her six children, ranging in age from 3 to 14, entered Jane Chinn Hospital for tonsilectomies Wednesday.

Why all at once?

"To get it over with," Mrs. Watts said.

Tennessee Ernie Said Lucky; He Almost Born In Virginia

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If Ernie Ford had been born a few miles distant, the nation's No. 1 record might have been "16 Tons" by Virginia Ernie.

That's the thought for today.

As a matter of fact, Ernie's hometown is on the Tennessee side of the border city of Bristol. It's a good thing, too. He probably never would have gotten very far as Virginia Ernie.

But as Tennessee Ernie Ford his career is booming. It looks as though his "16 Tons" is going to be the biggest seller in recent history.

"I'm amazed by it all," said the modest singer over breakfast, "nothing like this ever happened to me. I guess nothing like it ever happened to anyone."

The astounding sales: Over two million records in eight weeks, and the amount is still climbing.

No wonder Ernie is amazed—he has only been a performer for six years. He came to California in 1946, landing in San Bernardino as radio announcer. He moved on to Pasadena and that's where he adopted the Tennessee, using it as a disc jockey for country music.

How did he find "16 Tons"?

He explained that he was able to do a variety of songs on his TV and radio shows because he needed so many to fill the time. He remembered some folk tunes that Merle Travis, a guitar player and singer, had recorded. He picked "16 Tons" out from the sheet music.

"I did it three times on the show," Ernie recalled. "The mail response was terrific. Then I sang the song at the Indiana State Fair last summer. There were 18,000 people in a big hall and you could have heard a pin drop. That's when I decided I'd better record it."

The hit song has brought new impetus to his career. He has been sought for guest appearances and movies, most of which he has to turn down because of his rugged schedule. He had to nix a comedy role in "It Happened One Night" with June Allyson and Jack Lemmon.

His ambition?

"To spend more time with my two young boys at my ranch in Lake County, about 100 miles north of San Francisco."

Schuster since 1945 has been safety director for Hanna Coal Co.

Many An Industry In Setting Policies Points To Frail Sex

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The frail sex grows steadily stronger—industrially and financially—thanks to electronics and statistics.

With more women working all the time, and at jobs once considered only man's work, making more money and living longer to spend it, business increasingly tilts its products and processes their way.

And the more push button the better, as the banks have found in their quest for a stable labor force.

At the other end of the battle in the insurance game to let women shave three years off their age for premium payment as well as conversational purposes.

In the products field, power steering made its first great appeal to the woman driver. Men liked it but wouldn't admit they weren't strong enough to park a car easily.

Electric typewriters ease the daily toil of the tired stenographer. Prepared and prepackaged foods make homework easier for feminine breadwinners returning from the office or factory.

Now automation may see to it that the female with pushbuttons at her fingertips is the equal of the male in industry.

And the women will tell you it's high time, too. Around one third of the 54 million of the nation's women over 14 years of age are reported working now. Their total number is one third higher than before World War II.

Some 18 million women at work are under 65 and about a half million others are past that age. In the younger group the greatest percentage are in clerical or sales jobs. In the older group nearly half are in service jobs. But nearly a third of the younger group and a fifth of the older are doing professional, technical or industrial work.

Banks, for instance, now employ more women than men. And in some sections of the land there are more women bank vault custodians than men, and more women branch bank managers.

Since surveys show that in many sections there are more women than men locking away the money at night and taking it out again in the morning, one maker of safes has come up with a pushbutton door for bank vaults. The Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co. of Hamilton, Ohio, says that all the woman banker has to do is touch a fingertip to an electronically controlled button, and then things happen automatically: Massive locking bolts are withdrawn, the pressure system is released, the multi-ton door swings open, the footbridge is lowered.

And if the electric power fails? Oh, says the company, then the vault can be operated manually—by any man handy.

Since women are slowly getting their hands on much of the nation's wealth and live longer than men to enjoy it, the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. statisticians in Hartford, Conn., are among those who figure she could get an age break on insurance premiums. They have a new policy that lets a woman of 35 pay the same premium as a man of 32. Over a 20 year span she is said to save $1,000 in payments compared to a man really her age.

Overboard Seaman Swims 29 Hours

MIAMI (AP)—A Norwegian seaman who fell overboard Christmas Eve has told how he swam for 29 hours in the Florida Straits before being picked up.

Arne Nicolaysen, a seaman aboard the Norwegian freighter Hoegh Silverspray, told the captain of the British freighter Surveyor that he did not recall how he fell into the sea.

Nicolaysen, who is reported recovered from his ordeal, said he saw about 20 ships pass while in the water but that none was near enough to hear his cries for help.

FARM NEWS and VIEWS

By R. S. SWENSON, County Agent

Let's Take A Look

Each year I make an attempt to summarize some of the important things that have occurred in the agriculture picture in the county during the past year. The information I give here has been given by many leaders of various segments of agriculture in Pickaway County and I want to offer them my thanks.

Perhaps the greatest thing and the most talked about part of our agriculture was the sharp break in the prices of hogs during the year. The top price for 200 to 220 pound butchers at the local market was $18.50 in January and dropped to a low of $11.50 during November and December.

The price break is especially significant since approximately 38 percent of the agriculture income in Pickaway County comes from hogs.

The cattle market during the year has not fared so badly. The average top price of fat cattle has averaged $20 or more during the entire year. The cattle market, as well as the lamb market, can be described as having been steady.

The price of the two major cash grain crops has also dropped off somewhat. Wheat ranged from a high of $2.12 to $1.65 per bushel. Corn has been priced from $1.40 to $.97 per bushel during 1955.

The price of milk has also varied somewhat during the year. The prices of Grade B milk have ranged from $3.00 per hundred weight in late summer to $3.35 during the latter part of the year.

A top of $5.00 per hundred weight was paid for Grade A milk in August and a low of $3.40 during the month of May. The prices of 92 score butter have ranged from 56¾ to 60 cents per pound.

The objective of this column this week is not to point out the reasons for the price drop but rather to report what has happened.

The average corn yields in Pickaway County in 1955 was down an estimated 10 percent from 1954. Oats and wheat yields remained about the same as the previous year.

It is clearly evident in looking at these figures that the general price level of things the Pickaway County farmer has to sell has declined during the year while at the same time the average price of the products farmers need to buy has remained about the same.

The price of products made from steel increased approximately 10 percent during September and October. On the other hand, the price of seed dropped nearly 50 percent from early Spring until late in the year.

The price of fertilizer, sprays, insecticides, veterinarian supplies, etc. has remained approximately the same throughout the year.

The government program on price supports and average allotments has not changed to a great extent during 1955. The ASC office reports that the acreage allotment for wheat in Pickaway County for 1956 is 580 acres less than in 1955. Corn allotments will not be announced until February. However, it is predicted that the corn acreage allotments will probably remain about the same.

The important item for farmers to consider in 1956 will be the more rigid inspection and control of the quality of wheat marketed during the year. I mention this because the 1956 wheat crop was planted in 1955.

The financial situation of Pickaway County farmers seems to be relatively stable. There has been no material increase in borrowing during the year, however, loans have been consolidated. In many cases commercial and time deposits have decreased somewhat. There has also been a decrease in investments.

The farmer seems to be ultra-conservative when buying major items. This seems to indicate that farmers, in some cases, are using some of their savings as operating capital.

There has been an increasing awareness of the value of soil conservation as it applies to the entire farm as opposed to single conservation practices. The SCS office reports that during the past year they worked with a small number of farmers but feel that considerably more was accomplished in the way of conservation.

The rainfall for Pickaway County during the year was short by approximately 4 inches as compared to the normal rainfall. This is less than the deficit for 1953 and 1954. However, the rainfall distribution during the year, particularly through a band through the center of the county running from east to west, was good.

The year 1955 brought quite a change in the extension service of Pickaway County. George Hamrick, associate county agent, assumed his duties June 16. And Weta Mae Leist, secretary, started work in May.

We feel that several notable accomplishments were made during the year.

In the 4-H group program, George Hamrick coached three boys to the state championship in the State Fair beef judging contest. Also two girls received free trips to the National 4-H Club Congress after winning first place in the state with canning and safety projects.

Approximately 200 attended 4-H Camp at Tar Hollow. A total of 649 4-H club members completed over 1,000 projects. 4-H members won the best barn exhibit at the Ohio State Fair. A Junior Fair Board was organized, and all attendance records were broken at Youth Day at the Pickaway County Fair.

Approximately 1,300 attended the 4-H Barbecue.

Activities in agriculture included the Conservation Field Day on August 10 with 500 people attending; 300 high school students attended the annual Soil Conservation Essay Contest Field Day; a milk ring test for brucellosis was conducted in February and again in December; a number of visitors from foreign countries were entertained, including folks from Burma, India, Southern Rhodesia, Brazil, Turkey, and Germany; the Cattle Feeders Breed Associations, dairy service unit, agronomy and extension advisory committees were all active during the year.

The writer missed several shots at pheasants on opening day of hunting season. Pheasants were plentiful for the man who had a good eye. Rabbits were also in good supply. The writer just began his second year of association with people in Pickaway County.

The cooperation and assistance given the extension service by all groups and agencies was generally whole-hearted and it is greatly appreciated. Vocational agriculture teachers, soil conservation service personnel, FHA heads, ASC personnel, Farm Bureau members, granges, implement dealers, businessmen, and cooperatives all had a part in making the 1955 program in agriculture and home economics a success.

Livestock Water

Providing plenty of warm water for livestock during the Winter will pay off in the milk bucket or over the scales. It is cheaper to use electricity, or oil, to warm water before the livestock drink it than to use expensive feeds to do the job after it is in the animals stomach.

Controlling Grubs and Lice

Cattle grubs or "warbles" will begin showing up in the barks of cattle in Pickaway County in January. The grubs form cysts just beneath the skin of cattle after having traveled through muscular tissue from hairs on the legs. The grubs cut holes in the skin of the back through which they "breath" for a few weeks before leaning and dropping to the ground.

The grub is the larvae of the heel fly and it is at this stage the life cycle of the fly can be broken.

Tonsillectomies Set For 7 In Family

WEBB CITY, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. W.F. Watts, Miller, Mo., and her six children, ranging in age from 3 to 14, entered Jane Chinn Hospital for tonsilectomies Wednesday.

Why all at once?

"To get it over with," Mrs. Watts said.

Tennessee Ernie Said Lucky; He Almost Born In Virginia

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If Ernie Ford had been born a few miles distant, the nation's No. 1 record might have been "16 Tons" by Virginia Ernie.

That's the thought for today.

As a matter of fact, Ernie's hometown is on the Tennessee side of the border city of Bristol. It's a good thing, too. He probably never would have gotten very far as Virginia Ernie.

But as Tennessee Ernie Ford his career is booming. It looks as though his "16 Tons" is going to be the biggest seller in recent history.

"I'm amazed by it all," said the modest singer over breakfast, "nothing like this ever happened to me. I guess nothing like it ever happened to anyone."

The astounding sales: Over two million records in eight weeks, and the amount is still climbing.

No wonder Ernie is amazed—he has only been a performer for six years. He came to California in 1946, landing in San Bernardino as radio announcer. He moved on to Pasadena and that's where he adopted the Tennessee, using it as a disc jockey for country music.

How did he find "16 Tons"?

He explained that he was able to do a variety of songs on his TV and radio shows because he needed so many to fill the time. He remembered some folk tunes that Merle Travis, a guitar player and singer, had recorded. He picked "16 Tons" out from the sheet music.

"I did it three times on the show," Ernie recalled. "The mail response was terrific. Then I sang the song at the Indiana State Fair last summer. There were 18,000 people in a big hall and you could have heard a pin drop. That's when I decided I'd better record it."

The hit song has brought new impetus to his career. He has been sought for guest appearances and movies, most of which he has to turn down because of his rugged schedule. He had to nix a comedy role in "It Happened One Night" with June Allyson and Jack Lemmon.

His ambition?

"To spend more time with my two young boys at my ranch in Lake County, about 100 miles north of San Francisco."

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

Those who remember High School football, back nigh unto 50 years, will recall that D. B. "Mother" Clark was the first faculty football coach of old Everts—coming here in 1909.

Yes, it was "Everts" High School, those days! Why the name was ever changed to the title — Circleville High School, we'll never know. Just another instance of modernization, we surmise, or should we call it — progress? How we wish that we had preserved a traditional name, of which we should be extremely proud.

Before we had coached teams, you ask—how could we expect to win any games? We did though — and against some of the best-coached of the Columbus High Schools. In action, we may have been fooled, sometimes, by the razzle-dazzle of their coaches' strategy, but our one plan of defense, which was to keep your eye on the ball, and play hard, fundamental football, usually broke up any diagrammed offense.

You had to be hard to play on our team—why, we thought it was a disgrace to be pulled from the game for any reason other than that we were in a goofey condition. Maybe that doesn't make sense to our athletic directors of today and it probably wasn't a sensible thing for us to play until we dropped. Maybe we should have had someone to look after us, but we don't remember of any serious injuries or bad after-effects to any on our teams.

WE SUSPECT it would have tickled our parents and most of the High School faculty and the school Board had we got banged-up a little—then maybe we would have given up the crazy game—so they thought. You know, we got very little outside support those days — either moral or material.

Some of the records concerning college football reveal that it was not until in the 1890's that paid football coaches began to be employed by the schools. We find that in 1895, Glenn Warner was thrilled by an offer of 35 dollars for 10 weeks of coaching at Georgia.

The following year he was paid 40 dollars, but this was for 12 weeks, which reduced his pay from $3.50 per week to $3.33. "Pop" Warner's sixteen years as coach of the Carlisle Indians were his most colorful. During that time he had several undefeated teams and developed several All-Americans—the greatest of which was the immortal Jim Thorpe.

The usual salary of the first coaches was around 3 to 4 hundred per year, with other duties added to that of coaching. In 1892, Alonzo Stagg, a famous end of Yale in 1888, was hired by the University of Chicago at an unheard-of salary of $2500.00 and an associate professorship.

Want to know how old Everts' coaching staff was determined? From the squad, made up of about fifteen regulars, generally the veteran player, who knew the most about football rules and was the best kicker or ball toter, was made the Captain, and with this distinction went the responsibility of training the "greenhorns".

It was his job to size up the hopefuls during practice, and place them in a position where he thought they could do the most good. He was expected to show his teammates how to catch punts, how to recover fumbles, and how to tuck the ball under their arms and go with it.

IN THOSE DAYS, a football was twice as big as it is now and nearly round, and you were not permitted to throw it, except backwards. The Captain was expected to demonstrate the fine points of tackling—like the 'shoe-string" or a "flying tackle", and how to block, so the opponent stayed-put until that particular play was over.

It was his privilege to dope out the signals we used in the lineup—you didn't have huddles, then—so that the team would know who was to carry the ball and which way he was bound. There was no mystery about these signals—after the first few minutes of play, the opposing team knew them as well as you did.

The Captain had other non-playing duties, too—like seeing that each player got some kind of a suit and other rig to play in—to look after getting the playing field ready for a home game and to round up the players and make arrangements for any out of town trip we were to make.

He also was expected to be the spokesman for the team when we got in "Dutch" with some of the faculty or the Board of Education, because they thought we were using too much of our spare time in football, when we should have been getting our lessons.

Quite often, in the beginning of the school year and our practice sessions on the Glass Factory commons, some of the old grads of Everts, and some, who had played college football, would come over in the evenings and help our Captain try to make football players out of those who before had never had a football in their hands.

Some of these associate coaches, which we remember best, were Doc Hitler, John Boggs, Felix Caldwell, Rea Bales, Pearl and Bob Brehmer and Don Henry. High School records reveal that this plan of training put some darn good football teams on the playing field.

* * *

I'LL BET those of the team we played on at Everts, can boast of something quite out of the ordinary—and that is that our Captain-coach for two years, became the only Circleville football player ever to make an All-American. In 1913, Miller "Brute" Pontius, playing for Michigan, was named a tackle on Collier's All-American.

Yes, football may be a short-season game, but to reminisce about your own long-ago playing days, is never-ending and never out of season.

Judge Unimpressed By Wrapping School

He granted tuition refunds recently to four women pupils and sarcastically suggested to Oliver T. Lake, operator of Lake's California Supermarket Training School:

Air Force Alters Production Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered a revision of production planning for wartime to take greater account of the possibility of violent industrial devastation in an atomic war.

Secretary Quarles laid down a policy keyed to greater dispersal of production sources, and calling for assignment of top priority to aircraft and weapons systems that "must be kept in active production under the most austere emergency conditions."

There are the passport and visa facts and figures, formally issued by Scott McLeod of the State Department. It is from these figures that any arguments on the subject must arise rather than on emotional ractions to the miseries of the rest of the world.

For obviously, it is impossible for the United States to absorb all who are weary and heavy-laden. We could neither feed nor house them. How to restrict the flow to the United States is a debatable question. Some believe in greater restrictions; others in less restriction.

Some would temper rigidity of administration by a more merciful attitude; others fear a dilution of our cvilization by the increased admission of persons from other types of civilizations.

All these are arguable positions but the assumption that restrictions at present are stiff or inhumane cannot be established by figures.

Dayton Bus Employes Vote For Walkout

Howard E. Steele, president of Local 1385, Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, said union members voted 187-12 to turn down the company wage offer.

Steele said the union has asked the Federal Conciliation Service at Cleveland to enter the dispute. The contract with the local expires midnight Saturday.

Steele said the union is asking, in addition to fringe benefits, a 40-hour week for bus operators, who now work 48, and a 35-cent hourly across the board pay hike.

The company, he said, has offered 3 cents hourly, effective this Sunday, and an additional 5-cent increase if the city commission grants a satisfactory fare increase.

The commission has said that all four bus companies serving Dayton must consolidate before it considers any fare increase.

Steele said the union already has given 60 days notice to terminate the City Transit contract. Therefore a strike could be called Sunday. Negotiations have been underway a month.

A strike by City Transit workers would not affect the three remaining bus lines which principally serve Dayton suburbs.

W. W. Owen, executive vice president of City Transit, said, "All we know is that we are doing our best to work out a difficult situation."

Buick Builds 800,000

Highest peak of all time points to Buick as the buy of the year!

LATEST BULLETIN: Buick's total new car production for the United States and Canada in 1955 is crowding 800,000 at the time this goes to press.

Every time you traveled America's roads and streets and highways this year, you saw Buick history being made.

You saw more new Buicks than ever before—because more new Buicks were bought and registered in 1955 than in any previous year since car-building began.

You saw big, beautiful new Buicks in ever-increasing numbers because this year Buick outsold, by far, every other car in the land except the two most well-known smaller cars.

And if you had taken a look behind the scenes, you would have witnessed new Buicks being built at the rate of over three cars per minute to meet the public demand.

As Buick dealers, we recognized this mounting demand from the first—and nurtured it to the fullest benefit of the public.

For, with our growing volume, we were able to offer bigger trade-in allowances—and we did. So more and more people, attracted to the great new Buicks found it easier and easier to buy them.

Today, the demand continues upward. With the much-wanted 1956 Buick—introduced last month, and now in full production—this calendar year closes with Buick building toward an all-time high of 800,000 Buicks. The New Year looks like a million.

So MAYBE you ought to look into Buick for 1956.

Maybe you ought to look into that stunning new sweep-ahead styling that's winning such raves. Maybe you ought to try the wholly new sweetness of Buick's superb ride—and the precise sureness of handling that goes with it.

Maybe you ought to sample the lofty new horsepowers that come from Buick's big new 322-cubic-inch V8 engines—and the brilliant new response of an advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow* that brings you double-action take-off and a big boost in gas mileage.

Above all, maybe you ought to come in and see for yourself the bedrock value packed into every new Buick—and how much more sheer automobile your money buys here than the same money buys elsewhere.

Drop in first chance you get. We'll show you what solid worth Buick builds into cars to win such soaring success—and how favorable a trade-in allowance we can offer you with such tremendous volume to back us up.

$2688.00 † Local Delivered Price of the 1956 Buick SPECIAL 2-Door, 6-Passenger Sedan, Model 48 (illustrated)

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

Those who remember High School football, back nigh unto 50 years, will recall that D. B. "Mother" Clark was the first faculty football coach of old Everts—coming here in 1909.

Yes, it was "Everts" High School, those days! Why the name was ever changed to the title — Circleville High School, we'll never know. Just another instance of modernization, we surmise, or should we call it — progress? How we wish that we had preserved a traditional name, of which we should be extremely proud.

Before we had coached teams, you ask—how could we expect to win any games? We did though — and against some of the best-coached of the Columbus High Schools. In action, we may have been fooled, sometimes, by the razzle-dazzle of their coaches' strategy, but our one plan of defense, which was to keep your eye on the ball, and play hard, fundamental football, usually broke up any diagrammed offense.

You had to be hard to play on our team—why, we thought it was a disgrace to be pulled from the game for any reason other than that we were in a goofey condition. Maybe that doesn't make sense to our athletic directors of today and it probably wasn't a sensible thing for us to play until we dropped. Maybe we should have had someone to look after us, but we don't remember of any serious injuries or bad after-effects to any on our teams.

* * *

WE SUSPECT it would have tickled our parents and most of the High School faculty and the school Board had we got banged-up a little—then maybe we would have given up the crazy game—so they thought. You know, we got very little outside support those days — either moral or material.

Some of the records concerning college football reveal that it was not until in the 1890's that paid football coaches began to be employed by the schools. We find that in 1895, Glenn Warner was thrilled by an offer of 35 dollars for 10 weeks of coaching at Georgia.

The following year he was paid 40 dollars, but this was for 12 weeks, which reduced his pay from $3.50 per week to $3.33. "Pop" Warner's sixteen years as coach of the Carlisle Indians were his most colorful. During that time he had several undefeated teams and developed several All-Americans—the greatest of which was the immortal Jim Thorpe.

The usual salary of the first coaches was around 3 to 4 hundred per year, with other duties added to that of coaching. In 1892, Alonzo Stagg, a famous end of Yale in 1888, was hired by the University of Chicago at an unheard-of salary of $2500.00 and an associate professorship.

Want to know how old Everts' coaching staff was determined? From the squad, made up of about fifteen regulars, generally the veteran player, who knew the most about football rules and was the best kicker or ball toter, was made the Captain, and with this distinction went the responsibility of training the "greenhorns".

It was his job to size up the hopefuls during practice, and place them in a position where he thought they could do the most good. He was expected to show his teammates how to catch punts, how to recover fumbles, and how to tuck the ball under their arms and go with it.

* * *

IN THOSE DAYS, a football was twice as big as it is now and nearly round, and you were not permitted to throw it, except backwards. The Captain was expected to demonstrate the fine points of tackling—like the 'shoe-string" or a "flying tackle", and how to block, so the opponent stayed-put until that particular play was over.

It was his privilege to dope out the signals we used in the lineup—you didn't have huddles, then—so that the team would know who was to carry the ball and which way he was bound. There was no mystery about these signals—after the first few minutes of play, the opposing team knew them as well as you did.

The Captain had other non-playing duties, too—like seeing that each player got some kind of a suit and other rig to play in—to look after getting the playing field ready for a home game and to round up the players and make arrangements for any out of town trip we were to make.

He also was expected to be the spokesman for the team when we got in "Dutch" with some of the faculty or the Board of Education, because they thought we were using too much of our spare time in football, when we should have been getting our lessons.

Quite often, in the beginning of the school year and our practice sessions on the Glass Factory commons, some of the old grads of Everts, and some, who had played college football, would come over in the evenings and help our Captain try to make football players out of those who before had never had a football in their hands.

Some of these associate coaches, which we remember best, were Doc Hitler, John Boggs, Felix Caldwell, Rea Bales, Pearl and Bob Brehmer and Don Henry. High School records reveal that this plan of training put some darn good football teams on the playing field.

* * *

I'LL BET those of the team we played on at Everts, can boast of something quite out of the ordinary —and that is that our Captain-coach for two years, became the only Circleville football player ever to make an All-American. In 1913, Miller "Brute" Pontius, playing for Michigan, was named a tackle on Collier's All-American.

Yes, football may be a short-season game, but to reminisce about your own long-ago playing days, is never-ending and never out of season.

Judge Unimpressed By Wrapping School

He granted tuition refunds recently to four women pupils and sarcastically suggested to Oliver T. Lake, operator of Lake's California Supermarket Training School:

Air Force Alters Production Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered a revision of production planning for wartime to take greater account of the possibility of violent industrial devastation in an atomic war.

Secretary Quarles laid down a policy keyed to greater dispersal of production sources, and calling for assignment of top priority to aircraft and weapons systems that "must be kept in active production under the most austere emergency conditions."

Second priority was assigned to weapons and supporting systems for which production will be kept up under adverse conditions.

Sokolsky's

There are the passport and visa facts and figures, formally issued by Scott McLeod of the State Department. It is from these figures that any arguments on the subject must arise rather than on emotional ractions to the miseries of the rest of the world.

For obviously, it is impossible for the United States to absorb all who are weary and heavy-laden. We could neither feed nor house them. How to restrict the flow to the United States is a debatable question. Some believe in greater restrictions; others in less restriction.

Some would temper rigidity of administration by a more merciful attitude; others fear a dilution of our cvilization by the increased admission of persons from other types of civilizations.

All these are arguable positions but the assumption that restrictions at present are stiff or inhumane cannot be established by figures.

Dayton Bus Employes Vote For Walkout

City Transit provides 90 per cent of the bus service in Dayton and serves about 120,000 people daily.

Howard E. Steele, president of Local 1385, Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, said union members voted 187-12 to turn down the company wage offer.

Steele said the union has asked the Federal Conciliation Service at Cleveland to enter the dispute. The contract with the local expires midnight Saturday.

Steele said the union is asking, in addition to fringe benefits, a 40-hour week for bus operators, who now work 48, and a 35-cent hourly across the board pay hike.

The company, he said, has offered 3 cents hourly, effective this Sunday, and an additional 5-cent increase if the city commission grants a satisfactory fare increase.

The commission has said that all four bus companies serving Dayton must consolidate before it considers any fare increase.

Dayton's four bus companies now get a straight 10-cent fare. They are asking for 15 cents.

Steele said the union already has given 60 days notice to terminate the City Transit contract. Therefore a strike could be called Sunday. Negotiations have been underway a month.

A strike by City Transit workers would not affect the three remaining bus lines which principally serve Dayton suburbs.

W. W. Owen, executive vice president of City Transit, said, "All we know is that we are doing our best to work out a difficult situation."

TV Soap Opreas Confusing To Men From Mars, Claim

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a gentleman of macabre imagination who claims that wise and gentle little men from Mars are hovering in space ships about 50 miles above this continent studying us Americans.

It's his contention that the Martians have learned English from listening to the radio and only recently perfected a TV set. But because of the current riot of sun spots they're receiving only one hour a day—a daytime hour confined to soap opera. Since seeing is believing, they now don't believe anything they hear on the radio and base their estimates of us only on what they see.

The anxiety of the earthlings increases daily as observed on Television CBS. Misunderstanding is rife among families and acquaintances. The mortals remain within their homes, which are installed with moody music. There is much tears and anger and seldom any laughter. Observe one hour.

In the segment of life called "Valiant Lady" the question was whether the female known as Diane Emerson was fit to mate with the male known as Joey Gordon, who did not appear. The girl, talking with her mother, was remorseful about the past. Perhaps she had been indiscreet, for in the background were the squawls of an infant.

In segment "Love of Life" there was little love of it. The female Vanessa Raven wishes to adopt the small girl Carol. Pronounced tensions exist in the household.

Next, in segment "Search for Tomorrow," there was much gossip about the collapse of a marriage.

The accumulating anxieties and tensions of the earthlings have affected the television monitors on this space ship to a marked degree. We urgently request rotation of this command so that we may return to Mars for rest and rehabilitation.

Detroit Newspaper Strike Holds On

DETROIT (AP)—On its 28th day, the Detroit newspaper strike appears far from settled.

A number of issues reportedly still remained after the first negotiations Tuesday since prior to the Christmas weekend.

The printers, one of the three unions on strike, met with publisher representatives for two hours. A union spokesman said only one of 10 issues was settled.

TV Soap Opreas Confusing To Men From Mars, Claim

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a gentleman of macabre imagination who claims that wise and gentle little men from Mars are hovering in space ships about 50 miles above this continent studying us Americans.

It's his contention that the Martians have learned English from listening to the radio and only recently perfected a TV set. But because of the current riot of sun spots they're receiving only one hour a day—a daytime hour confined to soap opera. Since seeing is believing, they now don't believe anything they hear on the radio and base their estimates of us only on what they see.

The anxiety of the earthlings increases daily as observed on Television CBS. Misunderstanding is rife among families and acquaintances. The mortals remain within their homes, which are installed with moody music. There is much tears and anger and seldom any laughter. Observe one hour.

In the segment of life called "Valiant Lady" the question was whether the female known as Diane Emerson was fit to mate with the male known as Joey Gordon, who did not appear. The girl, talking with her mother, was remorseful about the past. Perhaps she had been indiscreet, for in the background were the squawls of an infant.

In segment "Love of Life" there was little love of it. The female Vanessa Raven wishes to adopt the small girl Carol. Pronounced tensions exist in the household.

Next, in segment "Search for Tomorrow," there was much gossip about the collapse of a marriage.

In summary, the earthlings appear to be afflicted by suspicion and gossip.

The accumulating anxieties and tensions of the earthlings have affected the television monitors on this space ship to a marked degree. We urgently request rotation of this command so that we may return to Mars for rest and rehabilitation.

Rice's Soph Star Amazes Cage Coaches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southwest Conference coaches must have nightmares when they think of Rice's 6-10 Temple Tucker, a sophomore center. He scored 43 points to set a tournament record Wednesday night while his mates were running up a 110-81 victory over Texas A&M in a first-round game of the Southwest Conference event.

That was the highest score of the night in some 25 tournaments.

In other Southwest tourney games, visiting California polished off Baylor 72-59; Texas turned back Texas Christian 66-60; and Southern Methodist whipped Arkansas 67-62.

Only one major tournament was decided. That was the Motor City in Detroit, in which Brigham Young, deprived of its three tallest players at the start of the second half through fouls, defeated Detroit 99-77 in the final.

The big shock of the night took place in Oklahoma City, where Oklahoma City University took the measure of the Oklahoma Aggies 48-47 to enter tonight's finals against Tulsa, which upset top-seeded Seattle 68-66.

In New York, the mighty San Francisco Dons ran their two-year winning streak to 35 games by outclassing Holy Cross 67-51 in the semifinal of the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden. UCLA, the last team to beat the Dons, halted defending champion Duquesne 72-57 in the other semifinal. The winners will meet Friday.

The Richmond Invitational also is turning into a red-hot battle, and tonight's semifinal between Cincinnati and Seton Hall shapes up as a corker. Cincinnati crushed Virginia 93-69 and undefeated Seton Hall upended Virginia 64-60.

The other semifinal will pit William and Mary, which set a tournament record by vanquishing Rhode Island 100-96, against Richmond, 96-84 victor over Army.

The semifinals of the Big Seven Tournament in Kansas City also are slated for tonight, sending Colorado against Iowa State and Kansas against Missouri. Last night, the Jayhawks beat Cornell 75-58 and the Tigers conquering Nebraska 71-66.

In Louisville, the finals of the Kentucky Invitation are scheduled for tonight, pitting top-seeded Western Kentucky against Murray State. The Hilltoppers wiped out a 12-point deficit to humble Louisville 86-77, while Murray gained its berth in the finals with a 98-87 victory over Eastern Kentucky.

Clemson, 100-95 victor over Louisiana State, and South Carolina, which beat Georgia 85-68, meet for the Gator Bowl title at Jacksonville tonight.

Other results included: Dayton (No. 2 in The Associated Press poll and unbeaten) 86, Washington and Lee 54, Ohio State (Robin Freeman, 27) 83, DePaul 72, Washington 54, Wisconsin 53.

Tigers Will Meet Grandview Tonight At 9 In Groveport

Game Will Decide Champion Of Tournament; Circleville Cruises By Reynoldsburg 86-69

Circleville will meet Grandview at 9 p. m. tonight for the championship of the Holiday Carnival at Groveport. Reynoldsburg meets Groveport at 7:30 p. m.

The Tigers earned their berth by coasting past Reynoldsburg's Raiders 86 to 69. The final score might well have been in the 90's except for the fact that coach Red Courtney substituted freely and used every man on the bench.

In the opener, Grandview's Bobcats clawed their way to a near hysterical 49-48 victory over host Groveport. Grandview saw its 30-18 half time lead cut to ribbons while the lead changed hands nine times in the last two periods. Forward Dave Zuhars scored the winning basket with only 18 seconds left.

Circleville started off slowly and trailed 17-16 at the end of the first period. Then the Tigers began to employ a full court press, threw the Raiders into numerous miscues while they were able to control the ball and zoomed into a 49-31 half time lead. From then on they were never headed.

* * *

JIM McCONNELL led the Tigers scoring with 32 points. Walter Sieverts, playing what Courtney called his best game yet, added 20. The rest of the scoring was divided among six other players.

Reynoldsburg's center Bill Parker provided virtually the only spark for the Raiders. He dropped in eight field goals and seven of 13 free throws for 23 points, besides making most of the rebounds.

Circleville's record is now 4-1, their only loss being at Washington C. H. following a two-week layoff. Reynoldsburg, coached by Mike Zorich, is 4-4.

The Tigers had a good shooting night. According to statistics, CHS made good on 44 percent of its field goal tries and sank 20 of 31 foul shots.

Grandview used its height advantage and a full court press to surge ahead of Groveport's Cruisers in the first half. At that point, it looked as if the Bob Cats would walk away with the game.

* * *

BUT IN the third period Groveport began to eat up the difference, mainly on the 10 out of 13 foul shots made in that quarter. Grandview, which suddenly stopped using the full court press, sank only one field goal in the same period.

Groveport took very few layup shots, popping them in from at least 20 feet out. Jim Stokes, who scored 18 points for the losing cause, dropped most of his in from far out. Team mate Jerry Roof added 17.

Gene Price used his amazing accuracy to lead the winners with 15 points. His three straight goals in the first period put Grandview into a commanding lead; his foul shooting kept the Bob Cats in the running in the wild third period and his goal won the game.

Grandview, coached by Bill Wall, evened up its record at 3-3. They play in the Central Buckeye League. Groveport now has a 4-3 record and competes in the Franklin County League, as does Reynoldsburg. The Cruisers are coached by Jim McKinney.

The two games were played before a very slim crowd. It sure would help the Circleville cause if local residents gave them some support! It is only a short ride to Groveport—turn east to the gym.

THE GYM is relatively new, being only three or four years old. The only detracting part of the building is that the floor is made up of blocks of asphalt tile, which is soon to be replaced by regulation hardwood.

Circleville's last two scores of 85 and 86 points may be a two-game record for the local team. Courtney said that the 85 points scored last Friday here against Wellston is a new record for the E. Mill St. gym.

East Team Puts Stress On Ground

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Woody Hayes of Ohio State apparently is going to shoot for victory in the East-West Shrine football game Saturday the same way he won his second straight Big Ten title—on the ground.

Hayes' two quarterbacks, Jerry Reichow of Iowa and Em Lindbeck of Illinois, both among the nation's top 20 passers, didn't throw once in a 40-minute dummy scrimmage yesterday.

Ohio State ripped the Big Ten apart with a crushing ground game pegged on Howard (Hopalong) Cassady and the All-America halfback is a member of the East squad. So are two linemen who helped make the Buckeyes' running game so powerful, tackle Frank Machinsky and center Ken Vargo.

Hayes has refused consistently to name a first team, but the group he worked with personally yesterday included the Ohio State trio.

The backfield had Lenny Moore, Penn State speedster, at the halfback opposite Cassady. Reichow did the ball handling in the split T, with Notre Dame's Don Schaefer at fullback.

With Machinsky and Vargo in the line were Jim Katcavage of Dayton and Will Frye of North Carolina, ends, Dick Murley of Purdue, tackle, and Ray Lemek of Notre Dame and Cal Jones of Iowa, guards.

A second backfield, quarterbacked by Lindbeck, had Bob Pascal of Duke and Tony Branoff of Michigan as halfbacks and Charley Sticka of Trinity at fullback.

Maryland Team Practicing Hard

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Maryland and Oklahoma football teams may play a lot alike, but their coaches are exhibiting different ideas in getting them ready for Monday in the Orange Bowl.

Coach Jim Tatum is having his Maryland players bang each other with all the power in their rugged bodies. Coach Bud Wilkinson is ignoring any hard contact.

Tatum acknowledged beforehand he was gambling on some vital injuries. He let his squad have it out at full hitting power for an hour yesterday. As a result, Dick Bittner, sophomore right tackle, suffered a rib injury.

Michigan State Fans Arriving

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A vanguard of 1,225 Michigan State students have arrived to root for the Spartans against UCLA next Monday in the Rose Bowl.

The group arrived yesterday. More trains are expected tomorrow. A total of 4,200 MSU undergraduates in addition to alumni will be on hand for the game.

Willie Pep Wins, But Takes Lumps

"He was a good, tough kid," Pep, 33, said after he had scored a unanimous decision over Arel, the ambitious 22-year-old southpaw from Messena, N. Y.

2 County Fives To See Action

Kingston's cagers will be seeking revenge when Coach Charlie Baxter's Jackson Wildcats invade there Friday night for a non-league hardfloor game.

Playing at Jackson, earlier in the season, the Kingston quintet suffered a 63-61 setback in a game which Jackson had to struggle from behind to win.

In fact, the Wildcats scored only 23 baskets to Kingston's 25 but made 17 foul shots, 13 by Don Smith to Kingston's 11 free throw points for the margin of victory.

In the only other tilt Friday night, Walnut will travel to Amanda where the Tigers hope to improve their 1-7 season record.

Cotton Bowl Teams Both Very Hungry

DALLAS (AP)—The Cotton Bowl teams, Texas Christian and Mississippi, are rated even enough that the question of which will win may simmer down to which is the hungrier.

On that point it would appear the schools are running virtually a dead heat — both are starved, for bowl victories that is.

Texas Christian has the longest famine. The last time it won a bowl game was 1939 when it beat Carnegie Tech 15-7 in the Sugar Bowl. Mississippi's last victory was over this same Texas Christian in the 1948 Delta Bowl.

Sugar Bowl Cage Tourney Opening

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Utah, Marquette, Alabama and Notre Dame square off tonight to open the two-day Sugar Bowl basketball tourney.

The opening night schedule pits Utah against Marquette in the first game and 'Bama against Notre Dame's defending champions in the second. Utah and Alabama are picked to meet in the finals, with Utah the favorite.

The famous woman golfer was stricken while on a Christmas holiday with friends at Fort Worth and was flown here yesterday afternoon. Attendants at John Sealy said here early today that her condition was satisfactory and that she was resting comfortably.

The Babe reported in Fort Worth that she must have become chilled while posing outdoors for cameramen.

DePaul Coach Says Freeman 'Terrific' In Buckeye Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"He's just terrific, that's all."

That was DePaul Coach Ray Meyer's capsule description of All-America Robin Freeman after Ohio State toppled the Demons from Chicago last night, 83-72.

Freeman bucketed 27 points, below par for the Buckeye guard who now has 268 points in 8 games, a 33.5 average.

But Freeman was the difference as far as Meyer was concerned.

"We knew what he could do but overplayed him. That's why their other boys scored so many points," the veteran DePaul coach said.

Four other Buckeye players scored in double figures as 15th-ranked Ohio raced to its sixth straight victory. The Bucks (7-1) led most of the way but needed a strong spurt in the final four minutes to wrap up the decision.

DePaul, hungry for an upset, put up a stiff battle before dropping its fifth game in 10 outings. The Demons, never ahead, deadlocked the score five times, the last at 49-49 with 15:27 to play. They trailed by only six points with five minutes remaining before Ohio widened the gap.

Chuck Ellis and Frank Howard hit 16 apiece for the winners while Ron Sobieszczyk topped the losing Demons with 23. DePaul, before last night, had lost to first-ranked San Francisco, Kentucky, Illinois and Minnesota.

At Dayton, the second-ranked Flyers turned on the steam in the second half to score an easy 86-54 triumph over Washington and Lee.

Dayton, sluggish most of the first half, broke through W & L's diamond zone defense in the final 20 minues for the runaway victory, it's ninth straight.

Capt. Jim Paxson paced the unbeaten Flyers with 22 points, while sophomore guard Arlen Bockhorn scored 17. Dayton built up a 39-30 intermission lead and Bockhorn's outside shooting in the second half opened the gates.

The win pushed the Bearcats into tonight's semi-finals against undefeated Seton Hall. Cincinnati, hitting 54 per cent of its first half shots, grabbed a 49-33 halftime advantage and coasted in. Dave Plunkett and Phio Wheeler led Bearcat scorers with 26 and 20 points, respectively.

Toledo, the Mid-American Conference leader, took another lacing in the Motor City Basketball classic at Detroit. Penn State thumped the Rockets, 76-66, in a consolation game. Guard Jim Ray netted 25 points for the losers.

In another consolation tiff, Morehead (Ky.) overwhelmed Bowling Green, 111-79, in the Kentucky Invivational competition. The Falcons' Jim Tucker scored 23.

In the same tourney, Ohio University won a loser's bracket game from Arizona, 91-76. The Bobcats connected on 31 of 78 shots for 40 per cent and meet Morehead for consolation honors today.

Pitt Is Banking On Punts, Power

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Power and punting are the key weapons in Pittsburgh's plans to upset Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl Monday.

"We've baned on them all season and they haven't let us down," Pitt Coach John Michelosen said today. "We've gotten most of our yardage on power plays.

"Our line isn't as fast and tall as Tech's," he said, "but we're bigger and we're hoping we can get the holes we need."

Turnpike Winner In High Court

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike Commission has won its fight in the state supreme court to pay a Toledo attorney only so much for land taken for the pike.

Lucas County Common Pleas Court has awarded $141,171 to Atty. Cooley Ellis for turnpike-appropriated land near Maumee and for damages to Ellis's remaining land. Ellis claimed further damages.

An appeallate court reversed the Lucas County decision. The commission appealed to the supreme court, which in turn reversed the appellate court and affirmed the lower court's ruling.

"The gall of that guy," says Linger. "He entered my store again Wednesday, pulled the same .32 automatic pistol, and says: 'C'mon now, Max, give me the money now.'"

Linger handed over $53, the contents of the cash drawer, just as he did last March, and again in April.

Rice's Soph Star Amazes Cage Coaches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wher. a sophomore can sink 43 points in fast college competition, what is he going to do when he becomes a senior?

Southwest Conference coaches must have nightmares when they think of Rice's 6-10 Temple Tucker, a sophomore center. He scored 43 points to set a tournament record Wednesday night while his mates were running up a 110-81 victory over Texas A&M in a first-round game of the Southwest Conference event.

That was the highest score of the night in some 25 tournaments.

In other Southwest tourney games, visiting California polished off Baylor 72-59; Texas turned back Texas Christian 66-60; and Southern Methodist whipped Arkansas 67-62.

Only one major tournament was decided. That was the Motor City in Detroit, in which Brigham Young, deprived of its three tallest players at the start of the second half through fouls, defeated Detroit 99-77 in the final.

The big shock of the night took place in Oklahoma City, where Oklahoma City University took the measure of the Oklahoma Aggies 48-47 to enter tonight's finals against Tulsa, which upset top-seeded Seattle 68-66.

In New York, the mighty San Francisco Dons ran their two-year winning streak to 35 games by outclassing Holy Cross 67-51 in the semifinal of the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden. UCLA, the last team to beat the Dons, halted defending champion Duquesne 72-57 in the other semifinal. The winners will meet Friday.

The Richmond Invitational also is turning into a red-hot battle, and tonight's semifinal between Cincinnati and Seton Hall shapes up as a corker. Cincinnati crushed Virginia 93-69 and undefeated Seton Hall upended Virginia 64-60.

The other semifinal will pit William and Mary, which set a tournament record by vanquishing Rhode Island 100-96, against Richmond, 96-84 victor over Army.

The semifinals of the Big Seven Tournament in Kansas City also are slated for tonight, sending Colorado against Iowa State and Kansas against Missouri. Last night, the Jayhawks beat Cornell 75-58 and the Tigers conquering Nebraska 71-66.

In Louisville, the finals of the Kentucky Invitation are scheduled for tonight, pitting top-seeded Western Kentucky against Murray State. The Hilltoppers wiped out a 12-point deficit to humble Louisville 86-77, while Murray gained its berth in the finals with a 98-87 victory over Eastern Kentucky.

Clemson, 100-95 victor over Louisiana State, and South Carolina, which beat Georgia 85-68, meet for the Gator Bowl title at Jacksonville tonight.

Other results included: Dayton (No. 2 in The Associated Press poll and unbeaten) 86, Washington and Lee 54, Ohio State (Robin Freeman, 27) 83, DePaul 72, Washington 54, Wisconsin 53.

Tigers Will Meet Grandview Tonight At 9 In Groveport

Game Will Decide Champion Of Tournament; Circleville Cruises By Reynoldsburg 86-69

Circleville will meet Grandview at 9 p. m. tonight for the championship of the Holiday Carnival at Groveport. Reynoldsburg meets Groveport at 7:30 p. m.

The Tigers earned their berth by coasting past Reynoldsburg's Raiders 86 to 69. The final score might well have been in the 90's except for the fact that coach Red Courtney substituted freely and used every man on the bench.

In the opener, Grandview's Bobcats clawed their way to a near hysterical 49-48 victory over host Groveport. Grandview saw its 30-18 half time lead cut to ribbons while the lead changed hands nine times in the last two periods. Forward Dave Zuhars scored the winning basket with only 18 seconds left.

Circleville started off slowly and trailed 17-16 at the end of the first period. Then the Tigers began to employ a full court press, threw the Raiders into numerous miscues while they were able to control the ball and zoomed into a 49-31 half time lead. From then on they were never headed.

* * *

JIM McCONNELL led the Tigers scoring with 32 points. Walter Sieverts, playing what Courtney called his best game yet, added 20. The rest of the scoring was divided among six other players.

Reynoldsburg's center Bill Parker provided virtually the only spark for the Raiders. He dropped in eight field goals and seven of 13 free throws for 23 points, besides making most of the rebounds.

Circleville's record is now 4-1, their only loss being at Washington C. H. following a two-week layoff. Reynoldsburg, coached by Mike Zorich, is 4-4.

The Tigers had a good shooting night. According to statistics, CHS made good on 44 percent of its field goal tries and sank 20 of 31 foul shots.

Grandview used its height advantage and a full court press to surge ahead of Groveport's Cruisers in the first half. At that point, it looked as if the Bob Cats would walk away with the game.

* * *

BUT IN the third period Groveport began to eat up the difference, mainly on the 10 out of 13 foul shots made in that quarter. Grandview, which suddenly stopped using the full court press, sank only one field goal in the same period.

Groveport took very few layup shots, popping them in from at least 20 feet out. Jim Stokes, who scored 18 points for the losing cause, dropped most of his in from far out. Team mate Jerry Roof added 17.

Chuck Ellis and Frank Howard hit 16 apiece for the winners while Ron Sobieszczyk topped the losing Demons with 23. DePaul, before last night, had lost to first-ranked San Francisco, Kentucky, Illinois and Minnesota.

At Dayton, the second-ranked Flyers turned on the steam in the second half to score an easy 86-54 triumph over Washington and Lee.

Dayton, sluggish most of the first half, broke through W & L's diamond zone defense in the final 20 minues for the runaway victory, it's ninth straight.

Capt. Jim Paxson paced the unbeaten Flyers with 22 points, while sophomore guard Arlen Bockhorn scored 17. Dayton built up a 39-30 intermission lead and Bockhorn's outside shooting in the second half opened the gates.

Paxson grabbed 19 rebounds to go with his 22 markers. Four of five Dayton starters were in double figures, but 7-foot center Bill Uhl had only eight.

Guard Ray Dieringer turned in Dom Flora, the Generals' high a sterling defensive job against scoring forward with a 29-point average. Flora was limited to 11.

In tournament action involving Ohio teams last night, Cincinnati was labeled a redhot favorite to cop the second annual Richmond Invitational after routing Virginia 93-69.

The win pushed the Bearcats into tonight's semi-finals against undefeated Seton Hall. Cincinnati, hitting 54 per cent of its first half shots, grabbed a 49-33 halftime advantage and coasted in. Dave Plunkett and Phio Wheeler led Bearcat scorers with 26 and 20 points, respectively.

Toledo, the Mid-American Conference leader, took another lacing in the Motor City Basketball classic at Detroit. Penn State thumped the Rockets, 76-66, in a consolation game. Guard Jim Ray netted 25 points for the losers.

In another consolation tiff, Morehead (Ky.) overwhelmed Bowling Green, 111-79, in the Kentucky Invivational competition. The Falcons' Jim Tucker scored 23.

In the same tourney, Ohio University won a loser's bracket game from Arizona, 91-76. The Bobcats connected on 31 of 78 shots for 40 per cent and meet Morehead for consolation honors today.

Pitt Is Banking On Punts, Power

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Power and punting are the key weapons in Pittsburgh's plans to upset Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl Monday.

"We've baned on them all season and they haven't let us down," Pitt Coach John Michelosen said today. "We've gotten most of our yardage on power plays.

"Our line isn't as fast and tall as Tech's," he said, "but we're bigger and we're hoping we can get the holes we need."

Turnpike Winner In High Court

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike Commission has won its fight in the state supreme court to pay a Toledo attorney only so much for land taken for the pike.

Lucas County Common Pleas Court has awarded $141,171 to Atty. Cooley Ellis for turnpike-appropriated land near Maumee and for damages to Ellis's remaining land. Ellis claimed further damages.

An appeallate court reversed the Lucas County decision. The commission appealed to the supreme court, which in turn reversed the appellate court and affirmed the lower court's ruling.

Returning Bandit Getting Familiar

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Market operator Max Linger has been held up by the same man three times and the fellow now calls him by his first name.

"The gall of that guy," says Linger. "He entered my store again Wednesday, pulled the same .32 automatic pistol, and says: 'C'mon now, Max, give me the money now.'"

Linger handed over $53, the contents of the cash drawer, just as he did last March, and again in April.

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Ohio farmers may expect overall farming costs next year to average about the same as they have this year, according to Riley Dougan, Ohio State University extension economist.

Dougan says the economic situation adds up to a prospect of lower average prices for feed and seed in 1956, which will in a large part offset higher prices for many of the industrially-produced items farmers must buy.

The extension economist sees prices for tractors, farm machinery, and some building and fencing materials averaging somewhat higher next year than this year. He expects real estate and personal property taxes to be up about five percent.

He says fertilizer costs per pound should remain at about 1955 levels, with some slight decline possible. Fertilizer cost rates have been dropping since 1952.

Prices for seed may average a little lower next year than in 1955, unless seedings for conservation are greatly expanded. Seed prices generally are lower now than they were last spring.

Prices of feed also can be expected to average somewhat lower than they were last year, Dougan says, but not greatly different from current levels. Feeder and replacement livestock are expected to cost about the same next year as this. He expects wage rates for hired farm labor to move up a little again next year with continued relatively full employment of people in non-farm jobs.

1. Cut off the longer branches and "plant" them as windbreaks to protect outdoor plantings such as low-growing boxwood, arborvitae, azalea, yew, rhododendron and juniper. Little teepees can be built around exposed shrubs and tender plants. This will protect them from biting, drying winds and prevent snow and ice from accumulating and bending the plants out of shape.

2. Place other branches curved end up over flower beds when the ground is exposed. This will prevent heaving of soils during alternate freezing and thawing. Heaving may force bulbs and roots of perennials from ground.

3. Erect the discarded Christmas tree as a bird feeder in the back yard. Anchor it well or fasten it against a fence. Tie pieces of suet to its branches and place a container of water beneath it. Keep food in constant supply for once birds flock to your door they expect the friendship of food to continue.

Crop surpluses present a highly troublesome problem in this country, but we may be lucky to have more grain than we can use, Firman E. Bear, soil scientist of New Brunswick, N. J. and former chairman of the soils department of Ohio State University, told persons attending an Ohio lime and fertilizer conference here.

The conference brought together representatives of industry and agriculture, extension specialists, and farm leaders, for discussions on the latest developments in lime and fertilizer applications to the soil.

Discussing the problem of crop surpluses, Bear said:

"Everybody — including Democrats and Republicans, farmers and city folks, and hungry peoples and their advocates from all over the earth — think they know what we should do with our crop surpluses. This is a highly troublesome problem viewed from any angle. We are lucky indeed, however, to have more grain than we can use.

"One great national drought cycle, like the one we had around 1935, would quickly get rid of surpluses. Our corn and wheat production dropped off over 35 percent for the 4-year period of drought from 1932-36. Some believe that this drought cycle repeats itself every 35 years, the next one being due in 1970."

The speaker noted that the population of the United States is increasing at a rate of one every 12 seconds, of 2,500,000 every year, a factor to be considered in any discussion of crop surpluses.

"I hope we are not living in a 'fool's paradise,'" he commented.

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Ohio farmers may expect overall farming costs next year to average about the same as they have this year, according to Riley Dougan, Ohio State University extension economist.

Dougan says the economic situation adds up to a prospect of lower average prices for feed and seed in 1956, which will in a large part offset higher prices for many of the industrially-produced items farmers must buy.

The extension economist sees prices for tractors, farm machinery, and some building and fencing materials averaging somewhat higher next year than this year. He expects real estate and personal property taxes to be up about five percent.

He says fertilizer costs per pound should remain at about 1955 levels, with some slight decline possible. Fertilizer cost rates have been dropping since 1952.

Prices for seed may average a little lower next year than in 1955, unless seedings for conservation are greatly expanded. Seed prices generally are lower now than they were last spring.

Prices of feed also can be expected to average somewhat lower than they were last year, Dougan says, but not greatly different from current levels. Feeder and replacement livestock are expected to cost about the same next year as this. He expects wage rates for hired farm labor to move up a little again next year with continued relatively full employment of people in non-farm jobs.

Crop surpluses present a highly troublesome problem in this country, but we may be lucky to have more grain than we can use, Firman E. Bear, soil scientist of New Brunswick, N. The conference brought together representatives of industry and agriculture, extension specialists, and farm leaders, for discussions on the latest developments in lime and fertilizer applications to the soil.

Discussing the problem of crop surpluses, Bear said:

"Everybody — including Democrats and Republicans, farmers and city folks, and hungry peoples and their advocates from all over the earth — think they know what we should do with our crop surpluses. Report Includes Route 23 Work By Holderman

Replogle Co. Listed For Two Projects In Other Sections

Pickaway County played an important part in the more than $197 million highway improvement program in Ohio during 1955, according to the Ohio Department of Highways.

One section of the four-laning of Route 23 was completed by the V. N. Holderman and Sons Co. This went from a point just north of Bell Siding to South Bloomfield for a distance of 4.6 miles.

The section north of South Bloomfield is scheduled to be finally completed next year. The Fischer Construction Co. has this contract.

But perhaps the biggest project will be the Circleville bypass, the contract for which was recently awarded to the C. F. Replogle Co. of Circleville. This is a multi-million dollar project and will be completed sometime in 1957.

* * *

THE REPLOGLE firm also completed work on two other main road projects during 1955. One was 9.2 miles of two-lane highway in Licking County on Route 16 and the other for 3.7 miles between Bellaire and Bridgeport in Belmont County on Route 7.

S. O. Linzell, director of the highway department, said that Ohio reached an all-time high for road improvements during the year. He said nearly $7 million went for maintenance projects, leaving more than $190 million in new construction.

Linzell, in announcing this year's figure, pointed with pride to the dilligent work of his staff and cited the cooperation of all members of the department even though numerous difficulties and problems faced them in their task of producing this all time high in Highway construction work.

He went on to say, "prior to 1953 for a period of seven years the value of construction work that was done by the highway department averaged less than $50 million a year. Since that time, the value of construction has been stepped up to $75 million in 1953; $115 million in 1954 and now in the year, 1955, $197 million. During this period construction costs were not marked by any noticible inflationary influences."

* * *

LINZELL, looking forward to the future said, "in 1956 the value of construction will be in excess of $200 million, unless there is a large federal program, something like that envisioned by President Eisenhower. In that case, the program will be considerably in excess of $200 million."

"When you stop to consider that the Highway program in 1954 more than doubled the average annual program of the seven years prior to 1953 and our program in 1955 trebeled the average, there is no question in my mind but that the Department of Highways is moving ahead on the road to more and better highways for tomorrow."

In his year-end report, Linzell cited comparisons of this year and preceding years as to construction costs, miles of four-lane divided highways and bridges. For example, in 1948-49, the highway department built 26.5 miles of four-lane divided highway compared to the year 1955 figure of 130 miles.

Also included in this release were statements by the director on Ohio's major urban expressway program, major projects completed in 1955, the highway department's recently stepped up engineer-in-training program and right-of-way program with additional comments on the all-important limited access program of the department and its aerial engineering program.

The director said, "I want to congratulate my staff on their performance in getting out this year's program. Only by dilligent work of the staff were we able to reach this all time high. I am indeed grateful for the cooperation of the varied divisions in the department. I am aware of the numerous difficulties and problems they encountered."

Majority Of GOP Leaders Now Sure Ike To Run Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — A majority of Republican leaders now are convinced President Eisenhower will run again.

The Associated Press has completed a poll of 134 Republican governors, state chairmen, national committeemen or national committeewomen.

They were asked: "Do you believe Eisenhower will run again?"

Yes	77
Yes, if	19
No	17
Don't Know	21

The "yes, if" classification is for those who said yes, if he has recovered sufficiently from his heart attack of last September.

A followup question also was asked: "If not, whom do you consider most likely to win the GOP nomination?"

Since most of the politicians already had said they thought the President would run again, not many cared to speculate on what will happen if he doesn't.

Ten said they think Vice President Richard Nixon has the best chance if Eisenhower drops out.

* * *

OTHER suggestions included:

Sen. William F. Knowland (Calif), Chief Justice Earl Warren, Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, Rep. Joe Martin (Mass), Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (Mass), Sen. Everett Dirksen (Ill).

Some sample quotes:

Mrs. Kathryn K. Meloney, Wyoming national committeewoman: "I'm confident he'll run again. He won't let the nation down."

Perry Compton, Missouri state chairman: He will run and "will win reelection handily. He is too good a soldier not to continue assisting his country when it needs help."

Mrs. Raymond W. Wheeler, Massachusetts committeewoman, said, "Yes, on a guess, because Leonard Hall (the GOP national chairman) looks so happy."

Most of the 17 who don't think Eisenhower will run again preferred to remain anonymous.

In his weekly report to newspapers in his home district this week, Brown declared that "most political experts still believe the President will decide not to be a candidate . . ."

The destruction was accomplished while the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Robenalt, were at work at the local Westinghouse Electric Corp. plant.

Westinghouse plant officials offered $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of persons responsible. A strike of the International Union of Electrical Workers still is in progress.

Lady Hit-Skip Driver Held For 2 Deaths

STATESVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Ethel V. Stacy, 26, Newport, Ky., is being held by authorities here for investigation in a Christmas eve traffic accident near Portsmouth, Ohio, which killed two men.

At Portsmouth, state highway patrolmen said the woman will be brought to Ohio for questioning in the U. S. 52 accident at Franklin Furnace.

Killed in the accident were Levi Coleman, 18, Columbus, Ohio, and Pikeville, Ky., and Jack McQueer, 29, Willard, Ohio.

Patrolmen said a woman driver pulled onto the highway into the path of the Coleman auto. The latter vehicle careened off the woman's car and collided headon with the McQueer auto. The woman disappeared from the scene.

Statesville authorities said the car in which the Stacy woman was riding when arrested was reported stolen from Newport the same day the fatal accident occurred.

Soviet Parliament Approves Budget

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio reported that both houses of the Soviet parliament yesterday approved the 1956 government budget promising a cut in defense spending.

The budget outlined to the 1,400 delegates of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) estimates next year's expenditures at 568,800,000,000 rubles, of which 102½ billion (just over 18 per cent) is earmarked for defense, an item nearly 10 per cent below the 1955 estimate.

Defiance Trucker Killed By Fumes

CHARLEROI, Pa. (AP)—An Ohio truckdriver died yesterday of carbon monoxide poisoning as he slept in the cab of his tractor trailer at a warehouse in this southwest Pennsylvania town.

He was John E. Ross. 29, of Hohenberger Trailer Camp, Defiance, Ohio. Frances Slezak, deputy coroner, said he died of the fumes despite the fact he left one window of the cab partly open. He was employed by the Glen Reed Trucking Co. of Defiance.
